

HOUSE APPROVES PRISON REFORMS

SOVIET BLAST
AT U. S. HELPS
AID PROGRAMSENTIMENT GROWS
FOR APPROVAL OF
MARSHALL PLAN

BY JACK BELL

Washington, Nov. 7 (P)—Marshall plan storm signals flew over Capitol Hill today, but administration leaders credited Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov with unwitting but powerful help in their pre-session drive for congressional approval of a European recovery program.

Molotov's Moscow radio blast at the United States, in which he said that Russia's struggle for power "is just beginning," pinpointed for many lawmakers the anti-Communist cord of proposed stop-gap and long-range economic aid.

Molotov Bluffing
Senator McGrath (D-R.I.), chairman of the Democratic national committee, said grimly that Molotov had defeated his own purpose if it was his aim to discourage American action to help the western European nations outside the Soviet orbit stay on their feet. "Statements of this kind only serve to solidify the American people," the Rhode Island senator told a reporter.

On the Republican side, Senator Capper of Kansas, a foreign relations committee member, said he expects Congress' answer will be to approve the assistance program which Secretary of State Marshall will sketch for Senate and House committees Monday.

Lawmakers generally dismissed as a bluff and a sop to home front morale Molotov's assertion that the atomic bomb secret "has long ceased to exist." The industrial know-how for making the bomb is still believed to be beyond the Russians.

But while the latest verbal shots in the Moscow-Washington "cold war" obviously helped cement a growing Capitol Hill determination to do something for faltering European Democracies, there was plenty of evidence that methods, procedures—and possibly the amount of money to be spent—will be argued long and loudly.

House Won't Hurry
The biggest question marks were being raised on the House side of the Capitol.

There, the special committee on foreign aid took official note of a possibility that Congress might not be able to complete work on an assistance program during the special session opening a week from Monday.

The committee, informally named after its vice chairman, Rep. Herter (R-Mass.), broke a previous silence rule to report on two days of secret meetings called to draft a set of recommendations to the regular committees dealing with foreign policy.

The Herter group had agreed to propose that the government's export-import bank and Commodity Credit Corporation be authorized to provide emergency help for France and Italy up to next March 31 if:

"The Congress (should) find that as a practical matter it will not be able to set in motion other machinery of foreign aid by the end of the special session."

Also on the House side, Majority Leader Halleck of Indiana put the administration on notice that there will be no effort to jam any proposition through that body.

JOURNEY BEGUN
BY FOOD TRAINHollywood Stars Give Movieland Sendoff To Good-Will Choo-Choo

Hollywood, Nov. 7 (P)—The Friendship train, bearing gifts from the heart of America to the empty stomachs of Europe, leaves tonight on a cross-country mission expected to provide a Christmas present of countless boxcars of the stuff that cheers most—food.

The train—an important phase of this nation's emergency program which Charles Luckman says will either succeed or fail by the end of this year—is scheduled to leave at 11 p. m. (PST) with between 15 and 20 loaded boxcars.

Before it arrives in New York Nov. 18, the load may number 200 boxcars, early response indicates. The National Friendship train committee, headed by the movies' Harry M. Warner, hopes the consignments will reach Europe by late December—when the need will probably be greatest.

Stars of Hollywood will give the good-will choo-choo a typical movieland sendoff, with two locomotives and eight of the original boxcars leading a parade down Hollywood boulevard en route to the station.

Grain and assorted wheat products—crates and sacks of them—make up the backbone of the Friendship cargo, also including sugar, evaporated milk, dried beans, peas and similar staples sorely needed in the undernourished areas.

Air Clipper Turns
Back Over Pacific
As Engine Sputters

San Francisco, Nov. 7 (P)—A Pan-American Airways clipper bound for Honolulu turned back because of trouble in one of its four engines last night and landed safely at the San Francisco airport early today.

Immediately after its arrival, at 1:48 a. m., Pacific Standard Time, the 23 passengers and their baggage were transferred to another clipper for resumption of the flight which was interrupted by the mechanical trouble 1,080 miles at sea—about halfway to the Hawaiian Islands.

An airline spokesman said there were no incidents, that it only resulted in a delay of several hours in the passengers' trip. The plane, Flight 807, had taken off from Los Angeles at 6:30 p. m. (PST). It returned to San Francisco because terminal facilities here permitted preparation of another plane for the flight on short notice.

Dry Worker Held
For Driving Drunk
To Fight His Case

Toledo, O., Nov. 7 (P)—The Rev. Howard B. Pilchard, 65-year-old anti-saloon league field representative charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, plans "to fight this charge to the end."

Attorney Thomas A. Farrell issued a fiat denying last night that Mr. Pilchard had taken so much as one drink before he was arrested Wednesday night. Patrolmen Sidney O'Dell and Kenneth Pleiss said his automobile struck a parked car.

"There has been a horrible mistake, I am sure," Farrell said. "Of a $200 bond posted by a bartender August Hoff, a former tavern owner, Farrell said:

"Mr. Hoff is a personal friend of Mr. Pilchard. He asked me to defend Mr. Pilchard and rushed to a bank to get $200."

Judge J. Parker Edwards continued the police court case until Nov. 14.

Russian Propaganda
Stings U. S. To Put On Truth Campaign

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, Nov. 7 (P)—Stung by the vigor of Russia's propaganda barrage, high government officials were reported today to be considering an intensified American "truth campaign" abroad.

At the same time it was learned that the state department is planning to ask Congress, possibly during approaching special session, for an additional $1,500,000 for its "Voice of America" and other foreign information programs.

These disclosures came on the heels of Secretary of State Acheson's declaration that the secret of the atom bomb "has long ceased to exist."

But it was other passages in Molotov's Red Revolution anniversary speech which stirred the greatest resentment among officials here.

The caustic-tongued diplomat contended anew, for instance, that the United States is trying to ring Russia with air and naval bases. Molotov mentioned in this connection the American interest in Greenland, which all the American nations have declared to be a vital link in the Western Hemisphere defense chain.

In general the attacks of Molotov, Deputy Foreign Minister Vishinsky, and the Soviet press and radio seek to prove that the United States is out to start a war against the Soviet Union and that the other countries of the world should line up with the U. S. S. R. in opposition to virtually all phases of American foreign policy.

At the state department and elsewhere in the American government this line is regarded as a three-way device to (1) rally people inside Russia behind the government; (2) frighten the smaller nations into support of Soviet foreign policy; and (3) obscure the direction and intent of Russia's own activities in such places as

UNIONS SLAPPED
DOWN BY NLRBNon-Communist Oath
Dissenters Barred
From Bargaining

Washington, Nov. 7 (P)—The National Labor Relations Board today knocked another prop from under unions whose officers refuse to take the non-Communist oath under the Taft-Hartley act.

The board ruled that such unions can't get on the ballot for a bargaining election even if they already hold a contract with the employer involved.

The decision came on a successful petition by the International Association of Machinists, giant independent whose officers have met the non-Red requirement, for an election at the New York metal plant of Sigmund Cohn, Inc.

The board held that the CIO wholesale and warehouse workers, whose officers have not complied, may not appear on the ballot. The CIO union has had a contract with Cohn for more than three years.

The agency also threw out yesterday seven other cases in which non-complying groups had sought bargaining elections before the Taft-Hartley act was placed on the statute books.

Included were three instituted by John L. Lewis unions—one of miscellaneous district 50 and two of the United Construction Workers, both subsidiaries of a United Mine Workers.

eastern Europe.

For some weeks there has been a growing feeling among state department, Army, Navy, and Air Force officials concerned with foreign propaganda policy that the present scope of the American information program is not sufficient.

This has been defined by Secretary of State Marshall as a policy of telling the truth about what the United States is doing and about the facts of American foreign policy development but in general ignoring charges against the United States by Russia or any other country.

What most worries Marshall and other leaders is the evidence reaching the state department that the Russians have made over and over again appear finally to be making an impression by force of repetition if nothing else.

SENATE HOSTILE
TO DR. ALTLANDOuster Of Health Chief
Hooked Up With Free
Immunization

Lansing, Nov. 7 (P)—Governor Sigler's ouster of Dr. William De Kleene as state health commissioner today brought repercussions in the Senate as that chamber threatened to deny confirmation to the new commissioner, Dr. J. K. Altland.

A Senate Republican caucus was reported to have shown hostility to Dr. Altland's confirmation because of a "question of the free immunization of children; we feel he won't go far enough." But it was indicated his name would go before the full Senate in closed session.

In Bay City last week, Dr. De Kleene charged he was removed because the Michigan State Medical society objected to his free immunization program and that Dr. Altland was the leader of those who opposed him.

Senator Colin L. Smith (R-Big Rapids), chairman of the Senate business committee, said his group had questioned Dr. Altland about his views and had reported to the caucus.

Swindling Charge

Detroit, Nov. 7 (P)—William Jacobs, 47-year-old figure in a $107,000 embezzlement case, was bound over for trial today in a 10-minute examination at which he was not represented by an attorney.

Recorder's Judge Arthur E. Gordon refused to delay the examination for the late arrival of defense Attorney John D. O'Connell.

Judge Gordon offered Jacobs, a bartender, an opportunity to ask questions of the single state witness, but the defendant, obviously, bewildered, replied "my attorney isn't here."

"That's not my fault," snapped Judge Gordon in ordering him held for trial under $25,000 bond. No date was set.

TAX SLASHING
GIVEN UP FOR
SPECIAL TERMREPUBLICANS HOLD UP BILL UNTIL JANUARY

Washington, Nov. 7 (P)—The Republican high command apparently abandoned today all plans for tax reduction legislation at the special session of Congress convening Nov. 17.

Chairman Knutson (R-Minn.) of the House ways and means committee said after a conference with Speaker Martin. "I rather expect the $4,000,000,000 tax reduction measure to go over until January."

Knutson's committee handles tax legislation and the Minnesota tax reduction measure is the leading advocate of tax legislation at the special session.

However, he emphasized to reporters that taxes will be the first matter of business when Congress meets in January for the regular session.

Knutson said the measure, if it becomes law, would make the tax cuts effective as of January 1, 1948.

Speaker Martin (R-Mass.) said yesterday it was his inclination to put the tax measure off until January, in view of the limited time to deal with foreign aid and economic legislation at the special session.

It was because of Martin's statement that Knutson arranged the conference with the speaker today.

After it broke up with Knutson's announcement that he thought there would be no special session action on taxes, Rep. Halleck (Ind.), the House Republican floor leader, told reporters:

"As far as I have contacted various people there appears to be no slackening in the Republican determination to bring about tax relief. However, there appears to be no demand that it come up in the special session. I think it is highly questionable that it will come up."

Kaiser Plant Adds
Second Shift, Plans
1500 Cars Per Day

Detroit, Nov. 7 (P)—Kaiser-Frazer Corp. announced today that on Nov. 17 it would add a second shift of 1,200 employees to its production line at Willow Run.

Edgar F. Kaiser, vice president and general manager, called the move "a step toward the immediate goal of producing 1,000 cars a day."

The firm currently is turning out about 800 units daily. Employment of the new shift of workers will swell the total manpower at work at the plant to 15,000 the company said. Premium payment for employees of the new, afternoon shift will be made in accordance with the firm's contract with Local 142, CIO United Auto Workers.

Kaiser-Frazer recently announced a goal of 1,500 cars per day by next spring.

Loaded Carferry
Flint Aground In
Manitowoc Harbor

Manitowoc, Wis., Nov. 7 (P)—The Pere Marquette carferry, City of Flint, loaded with freight cars and 19 automobiles, went aground in the Manitowoc harbor early today and efforts to free the vessel were suspended until gale-like winds subsided.

The wind caused the carferry to hit the shoals shortly after midnight as it was pulling out of the loading slip into the turning basin. At 7 o'clock this morning, the tug Green Bay got a line aboard and pulled the ferry free, but before Flint could gain momentum the wind blew the craft back on the shoal. A new effort to free the carferry was to be made as soon as the winds diminished.

BURGLARS NET $18,000

Grand Rapids, Nov. 7 (P)—Safe-crackers struck twice last night, in the offices of a dairy and a pipe and supply firm, for $800 in cash which boosted to approximately $18,000 the total cash loot in a series of 24 burglaries here since May 2.

WIDOW GETS $300,000
Detroit, Nov. 7 (P)—Mrs. Clara J. Ford, widow of Henry Ford, the auto manufacturer, was granted an allowance of $300,000 today by Probate Judge James H. Sexton.

The money from the estate of her late husband is to cover "support and maintenance" for one year.

Gusty Winds Cause
Scattered Damage
In City, Waterfront

Gusty southeast winds reaching a velocity of nearly 40 miles an hour, accompanied intermittently by heavy rainfall, this morning and early this afternoon caused scattered damage in many parts of the city, including several electric light poles blown down, at least one tree felled and plate glass window crashed in on Ludington street.

With the barometer dropping to 29.20 here by 1:30 this afternoon, higher atmospheric pressures in lower Lake Michigan caused the water level in Little Bay de Noc to rise a foot and a half to two feet higher than normal.

This unusual rise plus strong gusts caused three craft in the Escanaba yacht basin to break loose and pound against the dock, a skiff, a sailboat owned by Dr. Halleck and Ted Sura of the Veterans Administration and an outboard motorboat.

With the aid of commercial fishermen, all were recovered without additional mishap, and the Coast Guard reported at 1:30 this afternoon that no more damage had occurred in the harbor or surrounding waters. As far as is known, no boats were in distress and no commercial fishermen were out on the bay.

Meanwhile, commercial anglers were kept busy nailing rubber tires and other cushioning material alongside the docks to protect their fishing tugs from damage.

One electric light pole was blown down at Eighth avenue South, three were felled on Sheridan road—all old poles and two lines were down on the Ford River road. Earlier in the morning, live electric wires were blown down south of the high school athletic field, but they were quickly replaced by employees of the city light department.

A tree also was blown down across electric lines at Tenth avenue South and Thirteenth street. These and other minor difficulties caused by the storm kept city crews busy this afternoon.

High winds about noon yesterday blew in front plate glass windows at the B. F. Goodrich company store at Thirteenth and Ludington streets. Although downtown workers were driven to quick shelter and shutters, windows and doors rattled incessantly in many business establishments, no additional damage was reported.

The U. S. Weather bureau reported that the wind started blowing at 11 Thursday night and increased steadily, accompanied with gusts, until it reached a maximum velocity of 38 at 11 a. m. and at noon today.

Rain started falling at 10 Thursday night and by 1 this afternoon, .73 of an inch was recorded at the Escanaba weather bureau.

The forecast for today is rain and colder, with rain changing to snow and windy tonight and colder. Saturday's forecast is snow or snow flurries, rather cold and more wind.

KIDNAPER FREES
FLINT GIRL, 14Police Hunt Young Man
Who Said He Wanted
Baby-Sitter

Flint, Mich., Nov. 7 (P)—A state police hunt was on today for a young man who abducted a teen-aged school girl he had hired as a baby-sitter, and released her 10 miles from her home here three hours later.

Fourteen-year-old Irene Cooper, sought since Wednesday night when three young companions reported she drove off with the man in his car when he offered her $2 to take care of his sister's child, was found with friends in suburban Geneseeville late yesterday.

She told police the man turned her loose at 12:30 a. m. yesterday and she went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Loomis, friends of her father, who let her stay until Mrs. Loomis read newspaper reports of her kidnapping.

"I do not think we can be too hysterical, too much roused by the danger of Communist infiltration, Communist propaganda, Communist ability to seize power and hold it from a minority position," he said.

The correspondent expressed the belief that the United States and other western powers are in a better position than Russia industrially, militarily and with respect to manpower.

"If we have the courage and wisdom to play our cards correctly, in my opinion we are certain to win," Barnes declared.

Doughton, 84, Still Power in Congress

Washington, Nov. 7 (P)—The oldest man in Congress is 84 today—and he's still setting the youngsters a dizzy pace.

This 200-pound, six-foot-two giant of a man, was born during the war between the states, and got his name from the Confederate general his father followed in battle.

He is Robert Lee Doughton of North Carolina.

As former chairman of the House ways and means committee, he was a Democratic field marshal in the House during the days of Franklin D. Roosevelt and until the Republicans took control of Congress last January. He still is a wheelhorse in his party.

SIGLER'S BILL IS PASSED BY
79 TO 7 VOTESENATE GRANTS PAY RAISE FUND OF
$3,600,000

Lansing, Nov. 7 (P)—Governor Sigler's special legislative program was half way on the road to success today as the House approved his prison revision measure and the Senate voted a $3,600,000 grant for pay raises for 22,000 state employees.

The pay raise measure was enacted by a 19 to 8 vote, three less than the required vote to give the grant immediate effect.

Administration floor leaders beat off last minute attempts to eliminate the pay raise appropriation, to slash it by one third with a view to forcing reductions of state personnel and a Democratic attempt to boost it $1,200,000 to make the raises effective Nov. 1 instead of Jan. 1.

Earlier, the House of Representatives passed Sigler's bill to abolish the so-called "non-political" corrections commission by a vote of 79 to 7.

"Hasty Action" Opposed
No votes were cast by Representatives James B. Cochran (R-Detroit), T. Jofferson Hoxie (R-St. Louis), James Kirk (R-Vassar), Louis Mezzano (D-Wakefield), Hugo A. Nelson (D-Indian River), John S. Patskiewicz (D-Hamtramck) and William Romano (D-Van Dyke).

Rep. Charles R. Feenstra (R-Grand Rapids), whose resolution to appoint a study committee and defer action on the bill until the February session was defeated and who led the fight against the "hasty action," did not vote.

Meanwhile, the Senate, into whose lap the corrections revision was now dumped, was still considering a $3,600,000 appropriation to pay salary increases to 22,000 state employees.

The administration whips worked in the Senate to overcome a shortage of votes for the pay raise appropriation. A Republican caucus showed only 15 of 25 GOP senators favoring the bill, with 17 votes needed to pass it and 22 to give it immediate effect. It looked like Democratic votes might be needed to pass the administration measure.

As the support for the prison bill ebbed and flowed in both Houses, Sigler made important clarifications and concessions to gain support for a measure he declared was intended to return control of the prison and parole system to the hands of "elected officials."

It would place the department under a single, non-civil service commissioner appointed by and responsible to the governor. Under the commissioner, would be two single directors, also outside civil service, in charge of prisons, industries, parole and probation.

The original bill as released would have made the parole director chairman of the parole board and given him power to name the other two members.

Pay Raise Pushed
Sigler declared that was an error and amended the bill to provide for a Civil-Service parole board.

"I know of no reason at the present time why the parole board should be discharged," he said, but added the present members might have to compete in (Continued on page 11)

Hurts Suffered October
14 Fatal To Sandra
Morey, 3

Victim of a hit-and-run driver, whose identity still is unknown, Sandra Lee Morey, 3 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Omar Morey, 200 South 23d street, died Thursday night in St. Francis hospital.

The death brought to 11 the traffic toll so far this year in Delta county.

The child, who was struck down in front of her home the evening of October 14, and who was found lying unconscious near the highway, suffered double fractures of both legs and severe lacerations of the face.

Rene Derouin, 220 North 19th street, who discovered the child, took her to her home and later she was removed to the hospital.

Sandra Lee was born November 27, 1944. She is survived by her parents, three sisters and one brother, Sharon, Sheila, Janet and Sherwood; her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morey of Manistique; and her great-grandmothers, Mrs. Della Morey of Manistique, and Mrs. Julia Mayou, of Escanaba.

The body will be in state at the Alto funeral home this evening.

Rev. Fr. Martin B. Melican will conduct the funeral services at the funeral home Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock. Burial will be in Gardens of Rest cemetery.

DELTA JOBLESS TOTAL IS 417

Unemployed List Drops;
250 Of The Total
Are Veterans

The number of unemployed in Delta county took a decided drop from 585 in September to approximately 417 at the present time, James M. Damitz, manager of the local Michigan State Employment Service announced today.

The current total of jobless includes approximately 250 veterans, 62 women and 155 non-veterans. At least 60 per cent of the current total of 417 live in outlying areas and report to the several itinerant points serviced by the Escanaba office.

Industry in the community is operating at peak employment and expansion is contemplated among some of the newer firms. During the month of October, the local employment office referred 270 individuals to local employers for job interviews; and of this number, 135 were hired which included 77 veterans and 11 women.

Youth Who Fled Reformatory Is Recaptured Here

Clifford Erwin Fox, 15 year old Hastings youth, who escaped from the Lansing Industrial school last Friday, has been arrested by Escanaba police and will be returned to the school, Chief of Police M. E. Ettenhoffer revealed.

The youngster was picked up along the highway as he was hitch-hiking his way to Iron Mountain. He was carrying a razor-sharp six inch dagger in a sheath at the time of his arrest.

The world has done more mischief in the last 40 years than in all previous history.

Frank Falkies Michigan Potato Champion; Other Delta Growers Are High

Delta county potato growers made a clean sweep of honors in the premier certified contest, took two high places in the premier tablestock contest, won the 4-H Club premier contest and had their 23-year-old Frank Falkies of Frampton township acclaimed Michigan potato champion at the U. P. Potato Show ending last night in Hancock.

MISS ANDERSON QUEEN
Miss Eleanor Anderson, 17, of Ensign, Delta county's entry in the U. P. Potato Show queen contest at Hancock, was crowned Upper Peninsula queen there yesterday. Miss Anderson is a Senior in Rapid River high school and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Anderson. She was elected Delta county potato show queen last month.

Falkies broke all state records in the premier certified seed contest with a yield of 794.9 bushels an acre. This remarkable yield was made on 10 acres at the Falkies farm in Brampton township. Last year's record was 721 bushels grown by D. A. Robertson of Pelston.

There were 61 growers entered in the premier certified contest at the U. P. show, all with a yield of better than 300 bushels an acre. The average for all growers entered was 444 bushels.

Premier Certified Winners
The winners, all from Delta county, are as follows:

First, Frank Falkies; second, Adolph Gonchetski, Bark River, 616 bushels; third, Clarence Sundquist, Escanaba, 592.1 bushels; fourth, Grey Knaus, Cornell, 565.9 bushels; fifth, Emil Del Backer, St. Nicholas, 514 bushels; sixth, Jules Van Damme, St. Nicholas, 556.1 bushels.

Premier Tablestock
First place in the premier tablestock contest at the U. P. show was won by Blomquist Brothers of Metropoliitan, Dickinson county, with a yield of 576 bushels an acre.

There were 97 growers from the U. P. entered in the contest and their average yield was 371 bushels an acre.

Two Delta county growers placed in the tablestock contest. They were: Ted McFadden, fourth place, 506.5 bushels an acre; Anthony Skrobak, Bark River, 504 bushels an acre.

Sweepstakes Winners
The sweepstakes prize at the U. P. show was awarded to James Weiland of Manistique for his russet rural potatoes. He grew the potatoes on land formerly planted by Alphonse Verschure, a four-time placer in U. P. shows. Other placements in specific varieties included:

Russet Rural—Second, Kaleva Pontinen, Crystal Falls; third, Joseph Trapanier, Iron Mountain;

Fred McFadden of Cornell was reported first place winner in the 4-H club premier grower contest.

Announcement of the winners in the special contests was made Thursday night at a banquet marking the closing of the 18th annual U. P. potato show.

Baldwin Township Votes $150 Per Capita to Welfare

Baldwin township board on Oct. 24 approved a special appropriation of $150 per capita, or a total of $1,330.50 for the county welfare fund, making it the first to take such action among the townships in Delta county, it was reported yesterday.

The county welfare fund will total $51,055.50 if all the cities and townships make their per capita contribution. It will be used to defray the cost of the welfare program if state funds should run low next spring.

Ford River township this week announced that it had approved the welfare fund appropriation.

Other townships and the cities are to take similar action. The Escanaba city council is to consider such an appropriation at its meeting tonight.

AIRLINE WILL BEGIN NOV. 13

Nationwide Planes Will Serve Escanaba
In Future

Nationwide Airlines will make its inaugural flight from the enlarged Escanaba municipal airport Thursday, Nov. 13, Dudley Jewell, secretary of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, announced at the annual meeting at the Masonic Temple Thursday night.

Launching of this service will connect Escanaba with the Houghton, Iron Mountain, Menominee, Lansing and Detroit route of Nationwide Airlines. The Escanaba airport's runways have been extended to 3,000 feet to accommodate the large DC-3 planes used by the airline on the trans-Michigan flights. Mr. Jewell also said that Wisconsin Central Airlines are also proceeding with their plans to establish a route to the Upper Peninsula, which would provide Escanaba with scheduled air service to Milwaukee, Chicago, Minneapolis and Duluth.

In assuming his new duties as president of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, Denis McGinn outlined some of the objectives for the new year. Of particular interest was his announcement that negotiations have been under way during the past month to bring a large industrial concern to Escanaba. It had been hoped to make the full announcement at the annual meeting, but a delay of a few days has been encountered in completing the deal because the board of directors of the Chicago corporation were not able to get together early this week. It is expected that all negotiations will be completed within a week.

Mr. McGinn explained that the creation of the Escanaba Foundation will not mean the elimination of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce industrial committee and its functions. The committee, he said, will cooperate with the Escanaba Foundation, which was set up as "a holding" group for administering the industrial promotion fund of the C. of C. Some major objectives listed by Denis McGinn include: Planning and zoning to make Escanaba a better community for the future, expansion of the retail and wholesale business, development of more tourist facilities, and continued agricultural promotion.

Briefly Told
Masonic Meeting — A special communication of Delta Lodge No. 195 will be held at Masonic hall on Saturday, Nov. 8, at 1 p. m. to honor the late D. A. Brotherton. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday in the Alto funeral home.

Window Smashed—The plate glass window of Helen & Bud's Delicatessen, 1406 Ludington street, was smashed at 9:30 a. m. Friday when a gust of wind tore the awning loose.

Bank Director—At a meeting of the board of directors of the State Bank of Escanaba today, John A. Lemmer was elected a director to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Albert J. Young.

Is Promoted—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Blake 508 South 19th street, have received word from their son, Sherman F. Blake, that he has been promoted to technical sergeant. Sergeant Blake is stationed in San Francisco, Calif., and is assigned to duty on trains transporting veterans to hospitals near their homes. Sherman Blake has been in service for 10 months. He is a graduate of Escanaba senior high school, class of 1945.

Hospital
Lawrence King, of Gladstone, Route One, who cut his right knee cap severely, while at work in the woods, is receiving treatment at St. Francis hospital. He was admitted to the hospital Tuesday.

If you are one of those who graduated from high school lacking sufficient college entrance credits, there is good news for you. This, as a result of a new college agreement plan which was adopted Oct. 23 by the committee for college agreements at their regular meeting in Ann Arbor.

Escanaba and Iron Mountain are the only two high schools in Upper Michigan to have been accepted under the program, so far. Principal Edward Edick made original application for consideration of the school.

In order to qualify each high school must have a guidance counseling service, adequate, cumulative personal records of the students, a good follow-up program and be able to meet other specifications. The new college agreement plan is sponsored by the University of Michigan in cooperation with the Secondary School Principals association.

Marking a new step in education, the agreement allows students who lack specific subject credit for college entrance an opportunity to enroll in Michigan colleges, with the recommendation of high school officials. For instance, if you had attended Escanaba Senior high school and pursued a commercial course, it was not possible under the old system to qualify for college, you can enroll, without the special subject credits. This does not mean however that the number of required high school credits has been decreased, for college admission.

"We do not expect to have a great number of these students," stated Edward Edick yesterday. "It does however fulfill a need, for a student may learn only in his senior year that it is possible for him to enroll in college. If he had not pursued an academic course, it would have been impossible to enroll under the old arrangement."

DOG TEAM (L.S.) IN ACTION—H. "Commander" Reed parades his dog team of six toy Manchester terriers in Kalamazoo, Mich. The tiny mushers can pull more than their own weight—25 pounds for the six—in the small cart.

And when trainer Reed yells "gee" and "haw," the terriers perform like veteran huskies. The dog on the leash is a Great Dane puppy which usually accompanies the team as an overseer.

LEADERSHIP IS SPEECH THEME

General Motors Official Gives Address At C-C Meeting

Ralph L. Lee, public relations official of General Motors Corporation, discussed the subject of leadership and what it takes in an information and highly entertaining address at the annual meeting of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce Thursday evening at the Masonic hall.

Mr. Lee presented his subject from the viewpoint of the follower and what he seeks in a leader. He emphasized that leadership requires understanding of the other fellow's rights, courage, honesty, loyalty, enthusiasm, patience, respect.

"Leaders seem to be so completely wrapped up in their jobs that they cannot spare the time to worry about the jobs they might get or about other people who seem to be getting ahead faster than they," the speaker commented. "Leaders find in their work not only a means of earning but also a reason for living."

"Most leaders instinctively listen more than they talk, and talk only when they have something worthwhile and appropriate to say. When they listen they automatically sift out of the words they hear the nubbin of what the other fellow has on his mind. When they talk they use words the other fellow can understand—and no more words than necessary."

"Having faith in the ability of George Lindenthal, retiring president of the Chamber of Commerce, reviewed briefly the accomplishments of the organization during the past year. Particularly he expressed the appreciation of the board of directors and of the membership at large for the program of work performed by the committees during the year.

Denis McGinn, new president of the Chamber of Commerce, reiterated that the organization is headed for another busy year, pointing out that the new committees are meeting regularly and preparing their program of action for the year.

Harold Lindsay, former secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, served as toastmaster at the annual meeting and did a masterful and entertaining job.

Potter Studies Seaway

REP. CHARLES E. POTTER, visiting in Escanaba this week, presented his views on a number of problems in which his constituents are very much interested and among those problems discussed by the new congressman was the proposed St. Lawrence seaway.

Unlike his predecessor, the late Rep. Fred Bradley, Mr. Potter indicated that he has an open mind on this issue and that he can see at least two important factors in favor of the seaway. He cited these as reduced shipping costs from the Great Lakes to the ocean and the development of hydroelectric power to supply industry.

There is every reason to believe that when Rep. Potter has concluded his studies of the St. Lawrence seaway proposal, he will support the measure in Congress. If so, it will be one more gain for those who have led the fight for development of this great industrial development program.

If presented as a treaty between the United States and Canada, the project will require two-thirds approval of the United States Senate, after which both branches of Congress will have to appropriate funds for construction. If presented as an agreement between the two nations but not a treaty, only a majority approval by Congress is required.

The seaway project is scheduled for early presentation to Congress after the first of next year. It has already been approved by a Senate sub-committee. Its prospects for approval in the approaching session are brightest in the long history of the fight for this important improvement in transportation.

Boycott Of U. N.

THE Soviet determination to boycott a United Nations commission created to supervise general elections in Korea next spring is in accord with the Russian policy of participating only in international programs in which they are privileged to write the rules.

The Russians wanted the withdrawal of American and Russian troops from Korea by Jan. 1 of next year. The Russians have already trained a Communist Korean army in the north which would remain after the Red army had left. The Communists thus would be in a position to seize control of all of Korea after the occupation forces had withdrawn.

This procedure would nullify the American-Russian guarantee that the Koreans would not only have independence but also a government of their own choosing.

The Russian contention that the Korean problem is an issue for Russia and the United States to solve, since they are the occupying powers, would have merit under normal circumstances. The two powers, however, have been wrangling about Korea for two years without making any headway. As a result the United States government is convinced that it can get nowhere in its discussions with Russia in regard to Korea and has appealed to the United Nations to supervise elections.

The Russian boycott will complicate the efforts of the UN commission if the Red army remains in North Korea. Up to now the Russians have refused to permit any entry into their zone. If they refuse to permit the United Nations commission to enter the territory, the commissions of course will be unable to fulfill the task assigned to it by the world organization.

Shameful Failure

A 12 year old Chicago boy has confessed the murder of a seven year old companion by stabbing the youngster and by dropping a concrete slab on his head. In the course of the investigation that followed, it was disclosed that conditions of immorality and perversion that exist in the public school attended by the boys are common in that neighborhood and that juvenile officials and police had known for months that such frightening conditions did exist.

Following this disclosure, there has been the usual efforts by various groups and individuals to pass the buck because of a failure to correct the intolerable juvenile conditions that exist in that neighborhood. All agreed that vice is rampant in the area and includes both boys and girls of rather wide range of ages.

Inability to correct conditions as rotten as this is tragic evidence of failure in the campaign to reduce juvenile delinquency. Here is a case where the conditions of immorality were widespread and of common knowledge and yet no progress at all was made in correcting those conditions. As a result a 12 year old boy becomes a murderer and a seven year old companion is the victim.

Some social workers blamed the lack of recreational facilities. Others placed the blame on parents for failure to properly supervise the youngsters. Undoubtedly both reasons figure into the background of this situation. It is certainly true that parents cannot escape their responsibility for such conditions.

Exposure of this shameful situation points the need for moral reawakening in this country, not only in Chicago but in every village and every city from coast to coast. It shows the urgency of better recreational programs, better youth guidance efforts, greater church activity. Most of all, it points the need for an acceptance of parental responsibility.

Wolf Nearly Extinct

ACCORDING to state game experts, the timber wolf is headed for extinction in Michigan, a development that will not cause any appreciable shedding of tears. The timber wolf, like the coyote, is of no value to anyone but he has been one of the worst predators in the woods. Unlike the timber wolf, however, the coyote has thrived despite bounties on his hide and he is more in abundance now than ever before.

Also on the increase are red foxes, despite the fact that trappers have taken many of them in recent years. The market price for red fox furs dropped sharply last year and without a bounty to encourage more trapping of these predators, their increase would have been accelerated. As a result a $5 bounty was established in the last legislative session.

Wolves, coyotes, foxes, bobcat and even mink have been among the predators of the forests. Many people may not realize it but their own cats, common household variety, are also among the worst of the predators in the woods. Trappers and sportsmen will tell you that the woods are full of them and the damage they cause to birds and small animals is terrific.

A minor in Munising paid a fine of $50 in Justice Faircloth's court this week for unlawful purchase of intoxicating liquor in a Munising bar. The case was handled under the state law which makes it a misdemeanor for a person under 21 years of age to make a false or fraudulent statement for the purpose of buying liquor. The same statute makes it unlawful for a person over 21 to make a false statement for the purpose of buying liquor for a minor.

In the Munising case a 20-year-old youth pleaded guilty to violation of the law. Justice Faircloth set a good example in imposing a stiff fine on him. The state liquor control commission and law enforcement officers in most communities have been cracking down on bar proprietors who sell liquor to minors. That is as it should be, but the minor who is 19 or 20 and looks older should be punished if he goes into a bar and succeeds in buying drinks by misrepresenting his age. Few bar operators will run the risk of license suspension or revocation by selling drinks to a person they know to be a minor, but they are entitled to the kind of protection the state law invoked in the Munising case gives them.

PLAIN AS CAN BE

(Detroit News)

For the governor's benefit, let us go over again briefly the matter of the power of dismissal under State Civil Service.

He is quoted as saying at his prison industries hearing:

"One of the troubles with our present government in Michigan is the fact that many boards and commissions and various departments of government say, when trouble arises, 'There is nothing we can do about these matters because of Civil Service.'"

If any board, commission or department in fact has made such a plea to the governor, he should have disciplined the official concerned, for gross ignorance or else deliberate misinterpretation of the Constitution he is sworn to uphold.

The Civil Service amendment to the Constitution has limited the power to discipline or dismiss in only one particular, as follows:

"No removals from or demotions in the State Civil Service shall be made for partisan, racial or religious considerations."

That is all. There is no bar to removals or demotions for inefficiency, insubordination, indolence, incompatibility or any "trouble" whatever. The Civil Service Commission will raise its hand only on a complaint of partisan, racial or religious bias, and then will stay its hand, should the bias fail to be proved.

Women are doing more flying — both away from their husbands and at them.

PAKISTAN

(Scrapbook Item)

Thanks to M. O. A. Baig, Charge d'Affaires at the Embassy of Pakistan, Washington, D. C., I am at last able to shed a little light on the world's newest geographical name—Pakistan.

The exact origin of the name is a little uncertain. But, states Mr. Baig, this is the theory that is widely held among Moslems: Some 20-odd years ago, the Moslem poet, Muhammed Iqbal, wrote of a promised land or Utopia which might someday be established by Moslems in north-western India. This ideal state, where the Moslem way of life would prevail under a free Moslem rule, was pictured by Iqbal as con-

World Events Analyzed

BY PETER EDSON

Washington. (NEA)—If a bunch of lawyers and a batch of economists were cast away on a desert island, it would be even money which group would talk the other to death. The odds should probably be given to the economists, though, because lawyers eventually come to the point. Economists, however, ramble all over the lot, take twice as many words as necessary to say anything, and finally hedge around with ifs, maybes and on-the-other-hands.

This observation is made after taking one look and then running fast from Volume II of the Marshall Plan report from the 16-nation Committee of European Economic Co-operation, drawn up at Paris.

When Under Secretary of State Robert A. Lovett remarked the other day that the Marshall Plan "was now confused by an excessive amount of figures," he said a mouthful and he wasn't kidding.

At first, he said, they didn't have enough figures to make any intelligent decisions on how much aid was needed or how much the U. S. could give. But now, "they have so much stuff it's indigestible."

Secretary Lovett hopes that, eventually, the European Recovery Plan can be set up simply. It will have to stay out of what he calls "the miasma of statistics," where it is today.

—FIFTH VOLUME COMING UP—
There are now four volumes of studies on the Marshall Plan. A fifth, from Secretary of Commerce Harman's Committee of 19 big-shot businessmen, is yet to come. And Congress, with its millions of words of reports and hearings and reams of debate, is still to be heard from. The infant Marshall Plan runs the risk of being suffocated by its own swaddling clothes of exposition and oratory before it even gets born.

Volume four in this documentation is the President's Council of Economic Advisers' report. It was released under the snappy little title of "The Impact of Foreign Aid Upon the Domestic Economy." It's about as simple as these things can probably be made. This seems to be what the Council of Economic Advisers says:

The purpose of the Marshall Plan is to lay the foundations for a stable world economy. Any aid given to Europe will be less than the war and postwar programs. It should therefore be a reduced strain on the country. In 1943 and 1944, 40 per cent of American production went to war. In the first half of 1947, less than 10 per cent has gone overseas.

The effect of this export program on the average American citizen has not been too tough. Per capita consumption of meat, fruits and breakfast cereals is higher now than before or during the war. Consumption of milk, eggs, poultry, vegetables and wheat is not as high as in wartime, but it is higher than prewar.

Aid to Europe will exert some upward pressure on prices, but this pressure will be reduced in succeeding years.

—INFLATIONARY TREND—
Three grave dangers are pointed out. Some low-income families cannot now afford to buy enough to eat. High prices will lead to a demand for higher wages. Higher prices will cut down foreign purchasing power. The problem is to prevent price rises from spiraling into a further inflationary movement.

Some control will have to be put over the uses of food and steel. Wheat will have to be confined to humans and not fed to animals. Sending scrap iron abroad, as requested by the Europeans, is illogical.

Bottlenecks in the production and distribution of coal and fertilizer will have to be broken. Farm and industrial machinery will have to be allocated to Europe to increase her production and stop her demands on the U. S. for food and materials.

The ERP is going to cost Americans some money. Taxes won't have to be any higher than they are now, but they can't be made any lower right away if the budget is kept balanced. The idea of paying for European aid by borrowing and increasing the national debt is rejected.

On the question of repayment, the Council of Economic Advisers does a little ducking. It says there is now no way to measure Europe's ability to repay. But it indicates the advisability of making part of the aid an outright gift. Another portion of the aid might be paid for in the money of the receiving countries. What would be done with that foreign currency could be left to future settlement.

The failure to authorize any aid programs at all would be likely to spell industrial paralysis for some countries. This might bounce back on the U. S.

sisting highly of the territories of the Punjab, Kashmir, and Sindh.

In order to select a name for his imaginary promised land, the poet took the initial letters of Punjab, Kashmir, and Sindh (P. K. S.), combined them with the Persian word stan, "country," and coined the name Pakistan, pronounced PAH-ee-STAHN.

Mr. Baig writes to me that, "when the Moslems, in the course of the last decade or two, hoped to form a separate state, Pakistan appeared to be the most appropriate name to be given to the new Moslem country, although it does not now follow the exact geographical boundaries of the poet's dream."

In a way, the name Pakistan is similar to the famous Shangri-la, which, in James Hilton's novel, "Lost Horizon," is also the name of a paradise on earth. The people live in such a perfect environment, and the climate is so ideal, that they remain youthful, happy and vigorous for incredibly long years.

Let us hope that the similarity in the origins of Pakistan and Shangri-la will stand as a good omen of the peace and prosperity which may smile upon the Moslems now that they have at last reached their promised land—Pakistan.

Now What?

Good Evening

COSTLY PUFFERY — The Michigan budget office under the whip of economy has issued an order telling state press agents to slow up in their assiduous program of selling state officials and departments to the taxpayers.

Dunathan

The publicity men were told to issue releases on "only items of legitimate public interest" and to "minimize personalized references to individual officials." This edict, if adhered to by the state press agents, will cut a deep gash in their responsibilities. Gashes are always painful and it may be that with less to do the publicity staffs of many of the departments can be reduced to a workable minimum. Under civil service, however, any reduction in personnel is unlikely. We'll tell you why later on.

TRADITIONAL — The growth of the publicity men in state and federal government jobs was slow until the fabulous days of deep depression and high spending. Then in the government's effort to spend us into prosperity the publicity men blossomed. During the days of the late 'war they broke into full flower—and they haven't faded yet.

The press agents are on the taxpayer's salary list under a number of titles: Publicist, educator, public relations representative, visual consultant, photographers, to name a few. They are usually earnest well-meaning individuals attracted to the public payroll by higher wages than they were earning in private employment. They were recruited from the ranks of newspaper writers, photographers, teachers and that fringe who majored in journalism in college and have never worked elsewhere. To have publicity people in government has become traditional—if you count tradition on the fingers of not more than two hands.

THE NECESSITY — Are government publicity people necessary? We think they are, for several reasons. Most importantly, they are capable (most of them) of interpreting government reports and announcements into the language of the common man, something government officials, boards and bureaus seem unable to do.

Your sincere government publicity man will keep you informed on what the government is doing with your money—up to a certain point, for he is also a government employee. He knows that he must satisfy his superiors and works to present his department, board or bureau (and its chief) in a favorable light.

And the publicity people can, if they choose, turn out day-to-day information on the programs, the projects and the policies of government that helps maintain a healthy understanding on the part of the people.

AND ITS ABUSE — Unfortunately there are many government officials who turn the talents of the publicity men into channels foreign to that for which they were originally employed. These government chiefs, sub-chiefs, and even smaller chiefs of inconsequential bureaus have a publicity staff for only one purpose—to perpetuate their bureau and themselves. News releases, reports, and even the simplest statistical information drips with irrelevant puffery of the bureau and the man who heads it.

INTO THE PAST

Ten Years Ago

Escanaba — Mr. and Mrs. Clement Molignoni were honored Wednesday with a farewell party. The Molignonis are leaving to make their home in Menominee.

Gladstone — Edward Jones has arrived at Largo, Florida, where he will spend the winter months.

Manistiquette — Miss Emma Johnson and Miss Maria Tracy have left for Lansing where they will attend the Public Health conference.

Perkins — John Vanderhouten and Mr. and Mrs. John Mercier and daughter have arrived from Luxembourg to visit the Florian Decremier family.

Twenty Years Ago

Iron Mountain — Phillip Dota set a new skating record Sunday when he roller skated 15 hours and 20 minutes.

Escanaba — Rev. Fr. Bertrand Labinski is attending a retreat in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Escanaba — A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Michau Monday.

Manistiquette — An eight-pound baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Oliver Sunday morning.

Gladstone — Don Capucelli has resumed his duties in the shoe department of Rosenblum's store after a long illness.

Manistiquette — Miss Helen Thorpe left for Chicago where she will receive treatment at Augustana hospital.

Pictures of the "chief" are distributed by the thousands, and no quarterly, semi-annual or annual report is complete without a full page devoted to a smiling likeness of the chief's mug. The chief's name is always in big letters, too.

BUYING GOOD WILL — It is one of the duties of government publicity men to keep the newspapers in a state of stupefied good will. This being impossible, they do the best they can with what they have available.

The hidden—and sometimes not so hidden—scorn for the government publicity agent should be enough to discourage his personal calls on most newspapers. The newspaperman's assumed superiority is sometimes amusing, for most of the government publicity boys are recruited from newspaper ranks. But there is always the feeling that poor Joe has lowered himself to dip into the fleshpots provided at the taxpayers' expense.

Many government bureaus and departments, in their efforts to curry newspaper good will, go to considerable expense and trouble to keep the press representative in an open if not favorable frame of mind. Most often it is done with personally conducted tours, interviews with the "big chief," and the flattery of being singled out for invitations to informal little parties.

IRREDUCIBLE — The Michigan budget department's crack-down on non-essential activities of the government publicity divisions should, as we mentioned earlier, bring about a reduction in the size of the publicity staff.

It is not likely that this will happen because, under civil service, few jobs are abolished once they are created. And also under civil service, the more employees on the payroll the more protection against any reduction in civil service rating for the man at the head of the department or division. The budget bureau might control some publicity activities but it cannot cut out the dead-wood on the public payroll.

Roving Reporter

By Hal Boyle

New York, (AP)—When you travel a long uphill road you often can't see just where it's leading you, but after you climb a while you can at least look back down and see how far you've come.

That's the way I feel today. Ten years ago I walked down a short one-way path in a church, and when the traffic jam was unscrambled there I was—an innocent man married for life.

It has been really a trial marriage. Certainly a trial to my wife anyway. When I asked Frances on this anniversary "what had caused her the most trouble during the last decade, she didn't have to think it over for a moment.

"You," she said. I thought at first I ought to sulk about that remark, then I finally decided it was a compliment in a witty way. If they lose interest in you, of course you aren't much trouble to them.

Matrimony has convinced me that the angel who does the bookkeeping in heaven on the deeds of us mortals here below must be a woman.

Looking back on the last ten years, married life to me seems pretty much a confused but generally happy blur, marred chiefly by a four-year separation brought about by the late Adolf Hitler.

But to Frances each event of those years—the bitter and the sweet—stands out separate and in complete detail like the beads on a rosary. I wouldn't have noticed it if the minister at our wedding had lipstick on his collar, but if I asked Frances today whether his glasses were bifocal, she would know.

Once I told her I thought it would be awful to be a woman, as I think myself it would be a terrible curse to have such a perfect memory, and she said: "Oh, of course there are other compensations."

I don't know what married life has taught her. Very little probably, as she is still trying to change me.

Married life has taught me more, as it usually does a husband, as he comes to it with less understanding. Only three things come to mind offhand, however.

One is the wonderful discovery of breakfast. Before I was married I started the day off with a sack of peanuts and a bottle of soft drink, or else a dish of ice cream. I have come to believe that bacon and eggs are better.

The second thing I have learned is that a husband is doubly fortified in the battle of life by the fact that his wife—unless she is dumb indeed—has a wisdom beyond him that he needs. This is her instinctive feeling of what is best for him in the long run, which corrects the gaps in his own intelligence. Most men are tools if they make a major decision without their wife's advice. The wonder to me is how bachelors get through this world intact at all. Maybe they consult other men's wives.

Third, I learned that it is impossible to understand a wife, but they love you to keep on trying. Knowing Frances keeps anniversary celebrations, as most women do, I went to her the day before our tenth one and said: "Let's have a night on the town."

"I haven't got time now to get my hair fixed," she said, "let's wait until the same day next month and do it right."

It satisfied her that I had remembered. Since the tenth is the "Tin" wedding anniversary I asked her what I had bought her for a present, and she said:

"A new tin rug, some tin draperies and a tin sofa."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington. — Here is the message to hungry Europeans to be attached to the food aboard the Friendship Train:

"All races and creeds make up the vast melting pot of America, and in a democratic and Christian spirit of good will toward men, we, the American people, have worked together to bring this food to your doorsteps, hoping that it will tide you over until your own fields are again rich and abundant with crops.

"This gift is sent you by (name and address of donor)."

This message, translated into French and Italian, and printed alongside the American flag, is on all Friendship Train labels.

Note—The food is being distributed in France and Italy by the joint American relief agencies functioning together. They include: the American Baptist Relief, American Friends Service Committee, Brethren World Service, Church World Service, National Catholic Welfare Conference, Congregational Service Committee, Menonite Central Committee, Unitarian Service Committee, and all other American church groups conducting relief in those countries.

—ANTI-EISENHOWER CLUB—

Ed Eisenhower of Tacoma, Wash., one of the five Eisenhower brothers, is talking about forming an Anti-Eisenhower club.

It isn't that Ed doesn't like his brother Ike—in fact they are the closest of all the brothers; it's just that he thinks Ike means it when he says he doesn't want to run for president.

Anyway, Ed Eisenhower claims that Jim Stack, Ike's former aide, will join him in the Anti-Eisenhower club, and that they'll print up some stationery and really get organized—if the Eisenhower boom gets serious.

Note—The White House already thinks it's serious.

—STATE DEPARTMENT GESTAPO—

The nation is indebted to Bert Andrews of the New York Herald Tribune for exposing the exact text of the state department's gestapo cross-examination used in firing "disloyal" employees.

The Andrews expose shows the flimsy fabric of rumor dished out by the state department "firing squad" to be highly reminiscent of a certain European country we recently defeated in order to make democracy safe.

No specific charges were brought. The dismissed state department employee was briefly told the state department didn't like the people he associated with.

Some years back, the state department hierarchy had a different technique for getting rid of men who didn't "fit." They were accused of a clandestine sex charge, then allowed to resign.

The present system, however, neither permits the victim to resign nor to know the charges brought against him. He is fired with no appeal to a higher court, following which he can't get a job anywhere. No wonder the state department is now having trouble hiring good men.

Note—In contrast, the state department plus other government agencies sat complacently on their hands when ex-employees of Standard Oil of California and Texaco worked temporarily as government officials at the time Arabian oil deals were put across netting the oil companies millions. During that period Franz Von Schilling got a salary from the two oil companies while loaned to the state department; Max Thornburg, formerly of Standard of California was the state department's Arabian oil adviser; Col. E. P. Kavanaugh sat on the Army-Navy petroleum board; Adm. Andrew F. Carter was head of that board; James Duce and C. F. Snodgrass helped run the petroleum administration for war; while Comdr. Ralph Fowler sat in on Navy oil negotiations.

All were linked either before or afterward with the Arabian - American Oil company which not only persuaded the U. S. government to subsidize King Ibn Saud, but sold oil to the Navy for $1.05 a barrel when other oil was available at $0.40.

—TRUMAN WILL RUN—

Quite accidentally President Truman recently let drop the fact that he would be a "little busy" in September 1948—which, of course, is the time the presidential campaign gets hot.

Truman dropped this remark when Amvet Commander Edgar C. Corry Jr., invited the president to address the Amvet convention in Chicago next September.

"I'll be a little busy around that time," replied Truman, quickly adding with a smile, "However, don't take that to be an announcement."

Switching to economic problems, the president showed the Amvet commander a series of charts from which he called figures almost like a football quarterback. One chart showed how prices are following the dangerous pre-depression trend of 1929. Another revealed that $8,000,000,000 of surplus war goods had sold for only $1,000,000,000.

"If we are able to take such heavy losses from a war," the president commented, "we certainly should be able to spend some money to insure peace."

It didn't matter whether you called it the Marshall plan, the Truman plan, or by some other name, Truman added, it was really peace insurance in addition to humanitarian relief.

"My organization is with you all the way," responded Corry. "We'd even be for a return to consumer price controls and rationing if that were necessary and possible. But you'd never get the approval of Congress."

FAMOUS 'ROCK' STILL STANDS

But Military Legend Is Now Crumbling At Corregidor

By BERT BRANDT
Corregidor Island, P. I., (NEA).—An American military legend is rotting and crumbling away. Corregidor—the rock—still stands. Only some drastic act of God could ever pull down that towering mass of granite in Manila Bay, where 11,000 Americans, at the height of the war, held out for five long months withstood almost 250,000 Japs in one of the great feats of military history.

But on that rock, everything that Man created is dying, or dead. It's quiet on Corregidor, now. Weeds crawl over the rusted remains of the big guns that once thundered.

The tiny beach at North Dock is littered with debris, and with the punctured hulls of landing craft. At the left in a little ravine, is the entrance to the Tunnels, which housed Army headquarters and a hospital—the only refuge while MacArthur's and Wainwright's men were undergoing the worst bombardment to which any island ever was subjected.

High up, at the right, the steel and cement skeletons of barracks and other army installations are gauntly etched against the sky.

Climb up the dusty road. In the undergrowth on either side lie big guns, at crazy angles, with deep gouges bitten out of their barrels by bursting Jap shells. They look forgotten and forlorn as the vines slowly claim them.

The buildings you pass are shattered relics. Their roofs are gone, their steel beams exposed to sun and rain. Big chunks of massive concrete walls hang limply, supported only by steel reinforcing rods.

On the pock-marked wall inside one ghost building, scrawled in fading black, I read "Duffy, Belmont, Mass." Under that, "Krainz, Cleveland, O." And beneath that a single word—"Wainwright."

For five months, back in 1942, the eyes of the world were on Corregidor, while the last gallant remnant of American-Filipino strength kept up its gallant resistance, winning time for the United States to arm, though—for themselves—only death or savage captivity remained possible.

The American flag, hauled sadly down on May 6, 1942, and burned so that it could not be desecrated by the Japs, rose again when General MacArthur came back. Now it is down again, this time for good.

I came here on the day the United States turned Corregidor over to the free Filipino government. As it was lowered slowly to the strains of the National Anthem, suddenly Old Glory unfurled to full length for a moment—then, it seemed sadly, drooped again and came on down.

Now the flag of the Philippine Republic flies from the white pole atop the highest point on Corregidor. Behind it, standing out sharply on a bright afternoon, is a group of hollow-eyed buildings that once housed the heroes of the Rock. And behind these, in turn, over on the mainland, rise the cloud-shrouded peaks of Bataan.

This now is Corregidor. I wonder how many remember? How many care?

Marine Commandant Desires To Retire

Washington, (AP)—Gen. Alexander A. Vandergift, commandant of the Marine Corps, announced he has asked to be retired from active duty Jan. 1, 1948.

He said in a statement he is certain secretary of the Navy Sullivan will grant the request, made by letter.

Vandergift, the first four-star General in the history of 172-year-old Marine Corps, was appointed commandant on Jan. 1, 1944. He said he has been considering retiring for the last year.

Vandergift told a reporter that he bought a house near Lynchburg, Va., a year ago. He said he would go there to live when he is placed on the inactive list.

Diphtheria caused more fatalities in England in one year than did bombs of the Germans the same year.

Hair Removal by X-Ray May Have Serious Results

AP Newsfeatures
Chicago—The Journal of the American Medical Association has published an appeal to health authorities, chambers of commerce, better business bureaus and legislative committees of all civic organizations to warn the public against X-rays for removing superfluous hair.

These rays, says the warning, can lead to cancer, and if not, often to disfigurement worse than the hair. In the '20s X-rays were used in varying amounts on women and girls for hair removal.

The article summarizes the bad results, 20 years afterward. It declares that either one large dose of X-ray for this purpose, or numerous small doses, are dangerous.

The present appeal is made because, the article says, the hair-removing tactics of the '20s are now being revived. The instruments used do not always indicate that X-rays are the hair removers.

The report is made by Doctors Anthony C. Cipollari of New York City and Marcus B. Einhorn of Albany, N. Y. It is printed as an authorized publication of the AMA Council on Physical Medicine.

There is no question, the doctors say, that X-rays can remove hair, and make the removal permanent. But they assert it cannot be done without risk.

They warn also that although no devices of the sort yet have appeared, the radioactive atoms produced by atomic ovens can also remove hair. These atoms, they declare, are equally dangerous.

Registration Board For Medicine Named By Governor Sigler

Lansing, Mich., (AP)—Governor Sigler Monday appointed three new members to the state board of registration in medicine and reappointed two others, subject to Senate confirmation. All will serve four year terms.

Dr. Cyrus B. Gardner of Lansing, Sigler's physician, was appointed to succeed Dr. J. Earl McIntyre of Lansing; Dr. Leland E. Holly of Muskegon and formerly of Hastings, to succeed Dr. Ruble Goldstone of Detroit, and Dr. Cecil Corley of Jackson, to succeed Dr. Claude Keyport of Grayling.

Dr. David C. Eisle of Ironwood and Dr. Franklin L. Troost of Holt were reappointed.

'Cancer Mobile' New Weapon Against Public Killer No. 2

Dr. Willis Duncan, director of Kentucky's new "Cancer Mobile," interviews prospective examinees while a nurse stands by.

Louisville, Ky., (NEA).—Kentucky, a leader among states in the battle against cancer, is now getting ready to chase the nation's Public Killer No. 2 with the world's first mobile X-ray bus for cancer diagnosis.

Officially known as "Cancer Mobile," the bus already has toured the capital cities and the southeastern states and went to Miami so state officials could see it at the regional conference of the American Cancer Society before it comes back here to go to work.

In collaboration with the State Health Department, the Cancer Society will keep the X-ray bus moving around the state in areas where hospitals and other medical facilities are inadequate. Early detection is the key to cancer cure. Kentucky has recognized this by taking the lead over all other states in its cancer control program. Already it has a network of 16 cancer detection and treatment clinics. The bus is designed to provide an extension service to these and other hospital facilities.

The state's doctors are solidly behind the program. The Society already is besieged with requests from communities to have the bus visit them. Louisville Junior Leaguers, who sponsored the bus, have volunteered to travel with it and assist in taking case histories and handling patients.

The anti-cancer bus resembles in appearance the TB detection busses already in use, but it has a motor-driven tilt table and a special holder so that 14 by 17-inch chest films can be taken in upright position. The X-ray tube has a large focal spot to permit the almost continuous use involved in mobile detection work.

Oklahoma was the first state to have a mobile cancer detection unit, but it does not have X-ray facilities.

Ash From Volcano In Japan Boon To Face Powder Trade

Tokyo, (AP)—It's an ill volcano that erupts no good. In this case, Mount Aso Spewed volcanic ash for miles over farms and fields of Kyushu this summer. It may prove a boon for milady in Japan.

Today, a doctor Fujita reported that the ash contains a high percentage of Chitan—an ingredient used in making women's face-powder.

Prior to 1920, more than 2000 varieties of peaches had been introduced, with 1039 varieties named and described since that year.

STUDENTS EAT ON A DOLLAR

Home Economics Class At Cornell Univ. Makes Test

Ithaca, N. Y., (SS)—Worried about the high cost of living? Six seniors in home economics at Cornell University and their instructor are eating on $1 a day or less per person.

Not in the least thin or emaciated, the coeds are spending seven weeks of practical home-making in a seven-room apartment in a college hall, and they are proving that well-planned, balanced and varied meals needn't be expensive.

In fact, one week's meals averaged 85 cents daily per person. Meals are planned and prepared by a "cook" and "assistant cook," whose identity changes each week, and all marketing is done in local stores. The girls keep an eye out for "specials" and seasonal foods, and inexpensive meat cuts help them keep within their budget. Marketing is done twice a week.

Far from frugal, a typical menu includes for breakfast: fruit juice, scrambled eggs, toast, jelly, milk or coffee. Lunch: rabbit with bacon curls, lettuce and tomato salad, steamed apricots, cookies and milk. Dinner: salmon loaf with egg sauce, snap beans, baked potatoes, shredded carrot and raisin salad, gingerbread with lemon sauce, and demitasse.

On Tuesday when no meat is served, the girls substitute casserole, and vegetable plates. Poultryless Thursday is also observed. Luncheon sandwiches are sometimes open-faced to conserve bread.

The budget figure of $1 a day was set last spring, so now, as prices rise, the girls must be even more economical.

One week, the average daily cost for meals hit 91 cents, but included in the week was a dessert bridge for 16—nine guests were invited. Pineapple mousse, chocolate macaroons, vanilla wafers, and coffee were served, and the budget could be stretched to include home-made chocolate raisin clusters.

In addition to cooking duties, the girls also act as house-keeper, assistant, manager, and even "mother" to a 4-months-old baby.

Right Number But Wrong Town
Poplar Bluff, Mo., (AP)—Employees of a local insurance office who answered their constantly ringing telephone found themselves talking with persons who wanted information on sewing machines.

Unable to convince the parties they could invest in a beautiful insurance policy, the employees finally took steps to clear up the mystery. The callers hadn't read far enough into an advertisement of a sewing machine company to notice that the firm was located in Cape Girardeau 50 miles away.

What do you want to know? We will answer questions on any subject not involving extended research. Legal or medical advice cannot be given. Write your question clearly, sign your name and address, and (IMPORTANT) MAIL THIS COLUMN and a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope to ESCANABA DAILY PRESS SERVICE BUREAU, 1217 Thirteenth St., Washington 5, D. Q. What is the origin of the custom of kissing the Pope's foot?
A. Kissing the foot of a Roman emperor was a means of adoring him as a god. When Popes assumed regal powers they adopted the custom. While it is not definitely known when the custom began, in the ritual ascribed to Pope Gelasius (492-496), mention is made of deacons "kissing the Pope's feet before they began reading the Gospel." In addition the feet of the mule or ass on which the Pope might be riding also were kissed.

Q. Why is it colder in winter than in summer?

A. Because in winter the sun's rays fall more obliquely on the earth than at any other season. Also, in winter, the sun is above the horizon for a lesser period than in summer, and consequently imparts less heat.

Q. When my husband died in service several years ago, I did not apply for death compensation for myself and my younger daughter. Since then I have remarried and now would like to know whether I am entitled to retroactive payment of death compensation?

A. A remarried widow is not eligible for payment of death compensation. For compensation to be effective the day following the date of a veteran's death, a widow must file a claim within one year of the veteran's death. If filed later, the effective date of the compensation is the date the Veterans Administration approves the claim. Although you are not eligible for death compensation payments, the minor, dependent daughter of the deceased veteran still is entitled to the death compensation. However, in this case your daughter would not receive retroactive payments.

McMillan

McMillan M'ch.—A Halloween party sponsored by Sunday school officials and held in the Methodist church under the leadership of Miss Harrison and Mrs. Samuel Simmerman Friday evening served to keep the youngsters pretty well occupied. The little tots carried on their time-honored custom of knocking at doors and demanding "trick or a treat" and housewives were prepared for them with a good stock of goodies and candies after which the remainder of the evening was spent playing games. The older "kids" were abroad as usual but pranks were mostly confined to soaping windows. No serious depredations were reported.

Mrs. Luella Gouin was hostess to members of the W. S. C. S. at her home Wednesday evening with Mrs. Frank Kirby president presiding during the business session. Following the meeting Mrs. Kirby was pleasantly surprised with a birthday luncheon arranged by the hostess and Mrs. A. J. Mainville. The color scheme was carried out in black and yellow with an appropriate halloween center-piece. Lunch was enjoyed by candle light.

Old Country Store Proves Good Modern Investment

By MARY E. PRIM

Littleton, Mass.—A conservative Boston investment firm is running a 98-year-old country store here and reports a brisk turnover in ice-cream sticks, brooms, wheelbarrows and cording for corn husks.

The Paget Corporation took over the Littleton Common Store three months ago with some spare "risk" dollars.

If sales totals continue to zoom, the brokers look to a 10 percent annual return on their investment. And that's seven to seven and one-half percent more than the yield of their usual gilt-edged bonds.

Buying the ancient village store was the corporation's way of hoping aboard a hayrick in search of small business enterprises for risk capital ventures, a corporation vice-president said.

York where he is stationed after spending several days here with Mrs. Babcock and relatives Mr. and Mrs. John Hanger.

Glen Geerlings and party of friends who have been vacationing here the past week at the Geerlings cabin "Eagles Nest" on the Tahquamenon river left Tuesday for their respective homes in Zealand.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Schulze of Marion, Indiana are visiting here as the guests of relatives Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Hanger and Mr. and Mrs. John Hanger. Mr. and Mrs. Schulze are former residents of McMillan the former having been employed as depot agent for the D. S. S. & A. Railroad.

Trooper and Mrs. Harold Snyder and daughter, Sandra of Manitowish were guests at the home of the former mother, Mrs. Gretta Snyder and daughter Dorothy the past few days.

her home in Lakefield following a several days visit here at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Ney.

It's wonderful how a little Vicks Va-tro-nol in each nostril acts fast to soothe irritation, open cold-clogged nose and reduce stuffiness. And if used in time, Vicks Va-tro-nol helps prevent many colds from developing. Try it! Follow directions in the package.

Francis P. Rogers, who also is the firm's merchandising specialist, described the new venture as a "fusion" experiment.

"It's fusing the new with the old," he said.

He credited the store's success to non-glamorizing. Instead of adding chrome steel fittings or neon lights, the corporation simply put in new counters and an enlarged line of goods.

Littleton's shoppers don't go for frills, Rogers said, but are pleased to find dress shirts along with the dungarees and modern bathroom cabinets near wheelbarrows and hoes.

The town postoffice still remains back of the shirts counter. And the barber retains a portion of the ancient floorboards for his chair and cabinets.

The Boston corporation now is mulling over the idea of a whole chain of country stores and may also purchase small manufacturing businesses in the area.

New Camera Takes 5 Million Shots In Mere Second

New York.—Five million pictures a second is the speed of a new motion picture camera. This is claimed to be 10 times faster than any high-speed camera produced before. When its picture of a rifle bullet is thrown on a screen at ordinary speed it takes a minute for the bullet to move one inch.

The new camera, developed at the University of Rochester's Institute of Optics, was revealed here to a group of scientists by Dr. Brian O'Brien and Gordon G. Milne, who are responsible for its development. An earlier version was used at the Bikini atomic bomb test, but it was a type that produced a continuous streak instead of an interrupted series of pictures. The perfected model makes actual pictures.

The method used to get this exceedingly high speed limit the quality of the pictures produced. They are far below ordinary motion picture standards, but entirely satisfactory for use in research and industrial processes.

You Lose Strength After You Pass 25

Baltimore, Md., (SS)—You begin to lose your strength at the age of 25. That is when "old age" sets in, it appears from measurements of hand strength made on 552 men industrial workers by Dr. M. Bruce Fisher, of Fresno State College, California, and Dr. James E. Birren, of the U. S. Public Health Service when both were on duty at the Naval Medical Center, Bethesda, Md.

Strength increases up to the middle twenties, these tests show, and then goes steadily down. By the age of 60, the average loss of strength amounts to 16.5 per cent. There is, however, considerable overlapping among different age groups.

Lack of exercise cannot be the explanation for the loss, the investigators feel, because all the men were actively engaged in the same sort of work when tested. Details of study will be reported in the October issue of the Journal of Applied Psychology.

What's Your Choice --

High School or a Job?

That isn't an easy decision to make, particularly if you're a veteran in these days of high income and high living costs. But the day is coming when you'll need a high school diploma to get a good job. That's why more than 1,000 veterans are studying at Ferris Institute, many of them taking accelerated training for high school credits in an adult college atmosphere. The College Preparatory Department at Ferris is a business investment—it pays the greatest possible returns in the shortest possible time.

You Can Learn a Trade

Another good investment is Ferris Institute's Trades and Industry Department, offering you training in tune with the requirements of our modern world. Mechanical drawing and drafting, watch and clock repair, radio and electronics, refrigeration and air conditioning, electric appliance repair—all of these fields demand the right combination of theory and practice for success. Ferris Institute teaches them on that basis.

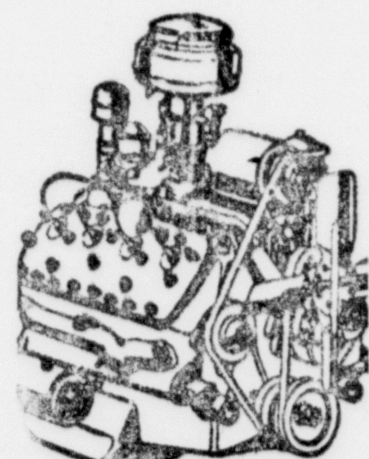

MORE GOVERNMENT HOUSING FACILITIES permit new students in these two departments, as well as a few more women seeking secretarial or accounting training in the Commerce Department.

HOW ANIMALS TAKE WINGS

Holstein Cattle Flown
From Canada To Uruguay

BY JEAN MEEGAN
(P) Newsfeatures Writer

New York —One crisp night this fall a thoroughbred Holstein calf was born in a bed of straw and shavings—at 7,000 feet of altitude, 20 minutes out of Trinidad. The mother was flying from Toronto, Canada, to Montevideo, Uruguay, in a cargo of 80 Holsteins being sent to improve the bloodline of South America's dairy herds.

Earlier, 14 penguins waddled into the airport at Montevideo, dined on fresh fish and took off in a clipper plane for New York to meet their new boss, an importer of exotic animals.

In the last two years the airplane has become an international, aerial Noah's ark. Airlines have specially fitted some of their big ships, installed feeding and watering troughs, and now specialize in transporting animals quicker and more comfortably than they ever were able to travel on land or sea.

One company flies everything from crocodiles to baby chicks. A live chick weighs less than an egg and millions of these tiny fluff-balls fly to South America every year. A contrasting cargo comprised nine of the meanest toughest, roughest bulls in South America, which were flown from Cartagena, Colombia, to Havana, Cuba, for bull fights.

On one flight from British Guiana to Miami the "passenger" list noted four guans (black feathered fowl related to North American pheasants); four curassows (hush turkeys); one Capuchin, which turned out to be a ring-tailed organ grinder's monkey; and 40 squirrel monkeys, all on their way to replenish American zoos.

Air express clerks at Miami held their ears recently when a pair of derbian screamers planned in from British Guiana and split the early morning air with jungle yells.

On a spicier occasion, a green parrot, alighting at Miami en route from El Salvador to Washington, D. C., hoarsely shouted: "Agua! Agua!" Before a traffic clerk could quench the bird's thirst, "Polly" let go in Spanish with a barrage of blue-backed oaths that cleared the runway. A house, two bears, 10 gibbons and 350 tropical birds recently checked into San Francisco after a 10,000-mile flight from Bangkok, Siam, en route to Avalon, Catalina.

A plane full of 90 dogs, two cats and six pigeons, all pets of GIs in Europe, flew in from Frankfurt, Germany, in advance of their masters' return.

As a part of its special animal cargo service, Pan-American had to send out a "mercy flight" recently. In the course of a flight from Australia to the Bronx zoo, a platoon of duck-billed platypuses ate up all their earth worms. The airline sent a plane with 10,000 worms to meet the ship in distress.

Invents Lighter That Lights Up

Colorado Springs, Colo. (P)—An automobile cigarette lighter with two electric lights has been patented by Wilfred R. Waltner Jr., who became annoyed at fumbling along a darkened dashboard trying to find the slot where the lighter reposes. One light inside the slot turns on when the lighter is removed. It goes out when the device is replaced. A second bulb inside the handle permits use of the lighter as a miniature portable flashlight for use around the automobile.

Ribbentrop's Villa Now a Labor School

Berlin (P)—The former palatial villa of Hitler's Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop in Berlin-Dahlem has been converted into a school for members of the German Labor Union. It has been named the Wilhelm Leuschner school after the German Social Democratic labor leader who helped spread the resistance movement to the Nazis in Germany.

Christian Youth
Rally To Be Held
Saturday Night

A non-denominational, all U. P. Youth for Christ rally is being held in Escanaba Saturday, Nov. 8, at William W. Oliver Memorial auditorium at 7:30 p. m. Rev. John M. Sergey, lecturer of the Dallas (Texas) Theological Seminary and field secretary and missionary of the Russian Gospel association will be the principal speaker.

Music for the rally will be provided by the Musical Johnsons of Gladstone, with the father at the marimba and the six-year-old son singing. Representatives from Manistiquette, Menominee, Marquette, Iron Mountain and other U. P. cities will be attending.

Reverend Sergey, formerly a star of light opera and concert work, is a graduate of North Park college in Chicago and received his master's and bachelor's degrees from Northwestern university. He is an honorary member of Phi Kappa Lambda, scholastic musical fraternity.

Mr. Sergey, who has traveled in the United States and Canada, as musician and missionary, composes gospel hymns, some of which are now being published in book form.

The Russian Gospel association has two Bible institutes in North and South America and was created to bring Christianity nearer to the Russian people.

Meet on Tuesday

The Barr Parent-Teacher association will hold its November meeting Tuesday evening, November 11, at 7:30 o'clock, at the school. Projects for the year will be discussed and Helen Elaine Stenson will speak on National Education Week. Lunch, for which each one is asked to provide his own cup and spoon, will be served during the social hour. Parents of Barr children are urged to visit the school during National Education Week, November 9-15.

Classic Clothes
Stretch BudgetBY ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Here's a dress formula for the co-ed who strains for a smart look in clothes on a school-girl's budget. Buy inexpensive clothes which are copied from good classic models.

Your selections will bear no price-tag look of identification. No one except the most knowing can tell whether your outfit came out of the upper price brackets or the lower.

Whether they're good classic models or reasonable facsimiles thereof, simple, almost timeless clothes are the mark of the smartly dressed girl.

Such clothes have good lines, and a young girl doesn't require much more of a dress or suit. She doesn't need, nor is her fashion-raising raised by, gageaws, or details of contrasting colors that muffle good lines. The best choice of color for simple clothes is either all-black, all-brown, or all-navy.

Adoption of such clothes doesn't mean that you have to be monotonously dressed in one of the three dark colors of basic design. Exciting accessories—as many novelty scarves, toppers, blouses, sweaters or chunks of jewelry as you can swing—will turn such clothes into as dashing outfits as you want to make them.

Social Situations

SITUATION: Your first-grader always refers to his teacher as "my teacher."

WRONG WAY: Refer to her as "the teacher" yourself when you are talking to your child.

RIGHT WAY: Refer to the teacher by her name and encourage the child to do the same. Learning to call people by name is an important part of a child's social development.

Restoration Day
In Presbyterian
Churches Sunday

November 9 will be observed in Presbyterian churches throughout the nation as Restoration Sunday, a day of emphasis upon completion of the $27,000,000 restoration fund campaign now in its final phase.

More than $23,000,000 dollars toward the goal has been subscribed during the first two years of the campaign, and more than half of the denomination's 3000 churches have reached their full local quotas.

The day will be marked by special services climaxing local campaigns now in full swing. It is expected to bring the Church close to the end of its three year effort in behalf of postwar church rehabilitation.

Proclaiming the day, Wilbur LaRoe, Moderator of the General Assembly said: "Even if a very heroic effort is required, as it may be in some cases, we must make the sacrifice required, to complete this fund. . . In view of the tragic condition of the world and of the part which the Presbyterian Church must play in rebuilding what war has destroyed, I urge every minister and every layman to deal with this problem as an emergency of first rank."

Close to $15,000,000 has been spent, to date, in restoration projects in China, Japan, Korea, Siam, the Philippines, and on the continent of Europe.

Europe Facing Hardest Winter In Eight Years

Editors note—The writer of the following dispatch has for 30 years been closely associated with ex-President Hoover in European relief problems. In World War II he was director of the Prisoner of War Relief Section of American Red Cross, which moved more than $170-million in relief supplies to American and Allied prisoners of war.

BY MAURICE PATE
Executive Director, UN International Children's Emergency Fund (Written for NEA Service)

Washington, (NEA). — This coming winter will be the hardest that the people of Europe have known in eight years of war and peace. This is a measured prophecy. I have just returned from a survey of European countries. The severe drought which has reduced crops in Europe has had a threefold disastrous effect on the exhausted people:

1. The city populations will have less than two-thirds of the native food they need until the next harvest.
2. Cereals which might have helped to recover the great loss of livestock (particularly milk cows) and poultry, as well as to provide a surplus for export in trade for invaluable protective infant mortality rate this past year was as high as 50 per cent.

Hungary: The amount of milk necessary to maintain even minimum health standards for the child population is nearly 2.9 billion pounds for one year. There are only 1.2 billion pounds available, according to Dr. Nicolas Kun, Chief of the Bureau of Protection for Infants. Dr. Kun reports that the present supply of milk, plus the proposed allocation of milk from the Children's Fund, will still be inadequate. Selection of the children to receive supplementary aid by the ICEF will be made on the basis of medical need.

More than half of the children are inadequately clothed and, in view of the present economic situation, the possibility of an immediate change is negligible.

France: The ration entitles children from birth to adolescence, and nursing and pregnant mothers, to milk, but actually milk supplies are insufficient. Such milk as is available in France is issued to children only on the basis of medical certificates. Evidence of malnutrition in France is shown by the mortality rate, by a lack of growth among children examined, and by examinations of children at Marseilles which revealed a high rate of anemia. France has not up to this time received any international government relief.

Finland: The number of war orphans under 16 years of age is 43,635. Before the war, Finland exported milk. Now the production is 60 per cent short. Vitamin D and cod-liver oil are so short that Finland has requested that cod-liver oil should be given high priority in any supplementary aid for children. Ten per cent of the children in rural areas cannot get to school for lack of shoes.

Austria: In every area, from 60 to 70 per cent of school children examined were found to be underweight and 40 per cent of all children are seriously undernourished. Many children are unable to go to school in bad weather because they have inadequate clothes and shoes.

Greece: Forty to 45 per cent of all children suffer from malnutrition. There is a severe stunting of growth in all children, particularly between the ages of 10 to 14 years, as an aftermath of the hungry war years. There are 320,000 orphans. The Government estimates the number of calories available from native supplies on a per capita basis as 1070.

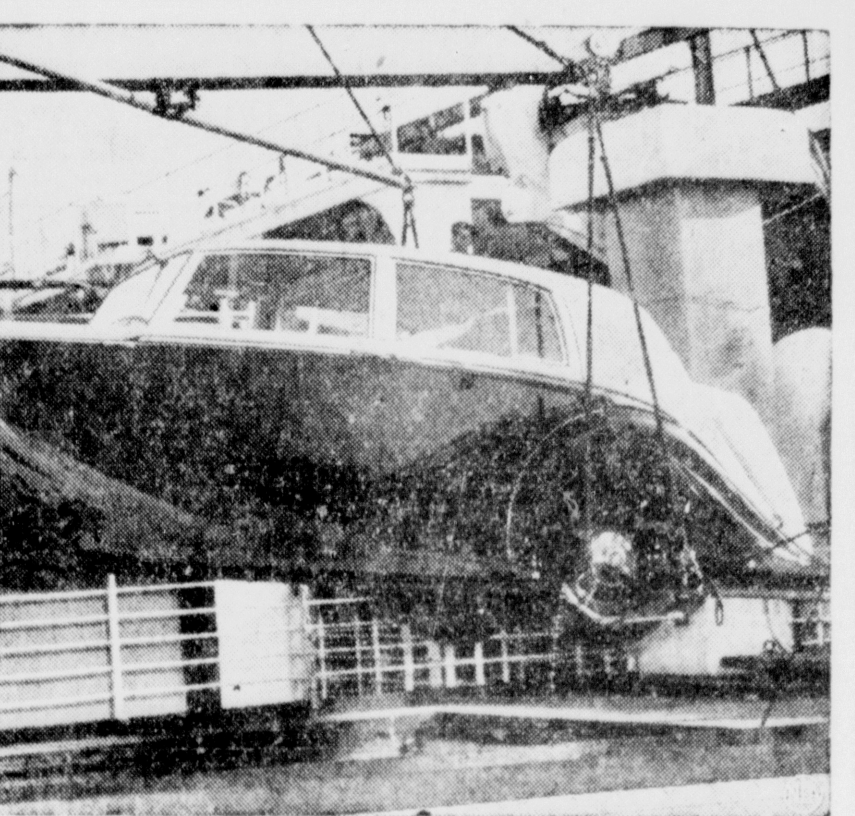

Czechoslovakia: Although Czechoslovakia has shown marked recovery since the war, the children are still suffering from six years of deprivation; 33,000 have active glandular tuberculosis; 90,000 have inactive glandular tuberculosis. At the present time, the distribution of whole dried milk in urban areas is based on a doctor's prescription for infants up to one year of age. For these infants particularly in Slovakia, the most urgent need is dried skim and whole dried milk.

Bulgaria: In the year 1945-46 31.3 per cent of high school boys examined did not gain in height and 37 per cent lost weight. Bulgaria, ordinarily an agricultural country, has suffered severely from three successive years of drought.

Italy: The Government's present relief program provides supplementary food for 1,750,000 children and nursing mothers out of a much larger total needing help. This food consists of from 600-700 calories daily. The present ration programs provide only about 1000 calories. The rest of the food has to be purchased on the free market and poor people have extreme difficulty to buy at the prevailing high prices. The problem of selecting the persons to be assisted has been difficult to solve because of the large number of mothers and children who, as a result of war, need urgent assistance.

Poland: The infant mortality rate for 1946 was 15 to 20 per cent of the live births as compared with four per cent in the United States and Switzerland. An abnormally large number of children have tuberculosis; rickets are widely prevalent in children under seven. Thirty per cent of the child population are suffering from malnutrition. There are over 1,100,000 orphans or halforphans, largely as a result of the war. The milk supply in Poland, as in other countries, is very inadequate. Only 56 per cent of pre-war cows remain, and there are inadequate fodder supplies for even this number.

Nebraska Farmer Is Chinese General In UNRRA Battle Of The Rice Fields

Shanghai, (NEA).—An American farmer, who learned to fight bugs in Nebraska, and a Norwegian agricultural expert are trying to save from two to five hundred thousand tons of rice this year for China's hungry millions.

For a year now Horace C. Traulsen, of Paxton, Neb., and Frederick S. Gulbransen, of Oslo have led China's war against a tiny worm, no bigger than a cutworm, which every season does enormous damage in the fertile rice fields of Kiangsi province.

On the average these rice-borers destroy 100,000 tons of rice a year. But every seventh year they get especially bad, and do from two to five times their average damage. This is the seventh year.

help Chinese farmers return their war-pocked farmlands to top production, their first problem was how to get at the borers.

Horace C. Traulsen learned to fight bugs in Nebraska, now helps lead China's fight against crop killers.

Two or three weeks after the first rice planting, moths come out of the stubble of last year's crop and lay eggs on the leaves of the new seedlings. When these eggs hatch, there is a brief interval before they can eat their way inside the new plants. For that short time they can be reached with insecticides.

So the UNRRA men blended DDT powder in the UNRRA-sponsored National Pesticides Manufacturing plant here. They persuaded Kiangsi farmers to leave narrow rows unplanted, through which men armed with spray guns could walk to spray the young plants and kill newly-hatched larvae.

But this was not enough. They could not get them all, and they knew that those that escaped would be back next year, breeding again.

So they spent last winter persuading farmers to dispose of the old rice straw, which always had been saved, to get rid of larvae hiding in it stems. Provincial legislation is now pending to require that this straw be destroyed after each harvest.

The program's success can not be told until all of Kiangsi's three rice crops have been harvested this year. But if the borer scourge can be held down in this dangerous seventh year, UNRRA and local experts are convinced that, within a few seasons, the borer can be destroyed entirely.

Radar Tracks Down Game Law Violators Who Use Airplanes

Washington — (P) — Game law violators have taken to bringing illegal kills across the Mexican and Canadian borders in airplanes and federal game wardens are tracking them down by radar.

W. E. Crouch, 54-year-old federal game warden, disclosed these new gambits Thursday.

Even with their modern equipment, he told a reporter, his 70 agents are only "one-fourth as many as we should have for proper enforcement of the game laws."

"The law-breakers," he said, "are up to some new tricks, most of which involve the use of faster transportation — airplanes and high-speed cars and boats."

"There's been some of this going on in bringing illegal game across the borders from Mexico and Canada."

"But we're a jump ahead of them still. We've been using planes, for spotting violations and for movement of our men, for a number of years."

"Now we're using radar, the walkie-talkie, and we're going in to the use of radar."

INFLATION AIDS LABOR MARKET

Joblessness Kept Down By Pressure, Federal Reserve Claims

Washington, Oct. 27 (P)—Inflation is helping to keep down joblessness, the Federal Reserve Board bulletin said today.

"As long as inflationary pressures continue strong there is little likelihood that unemployment will increase greatly," the board's monthly publication said in an article analyzing "the current labor market."

But it also said that "pressures for wage increases are likely to continue unless living costs are stabilized or reduced," because "continued advances in prices, particularly in food prices, are placing increasing pressure on the living standards of many workers."

President Truman in calling a special session of Congress for November 17 to consider aid for Europe said he also will propose legislation to check "inflation, high prices and the high cost of living."

The Federal Reserve article declared "the labor market currently appears to be firm, on the whole." It commented that:

1. Employers hiring new workers "have become more selective than earlier with regard to age, sex and previous experience of workers."

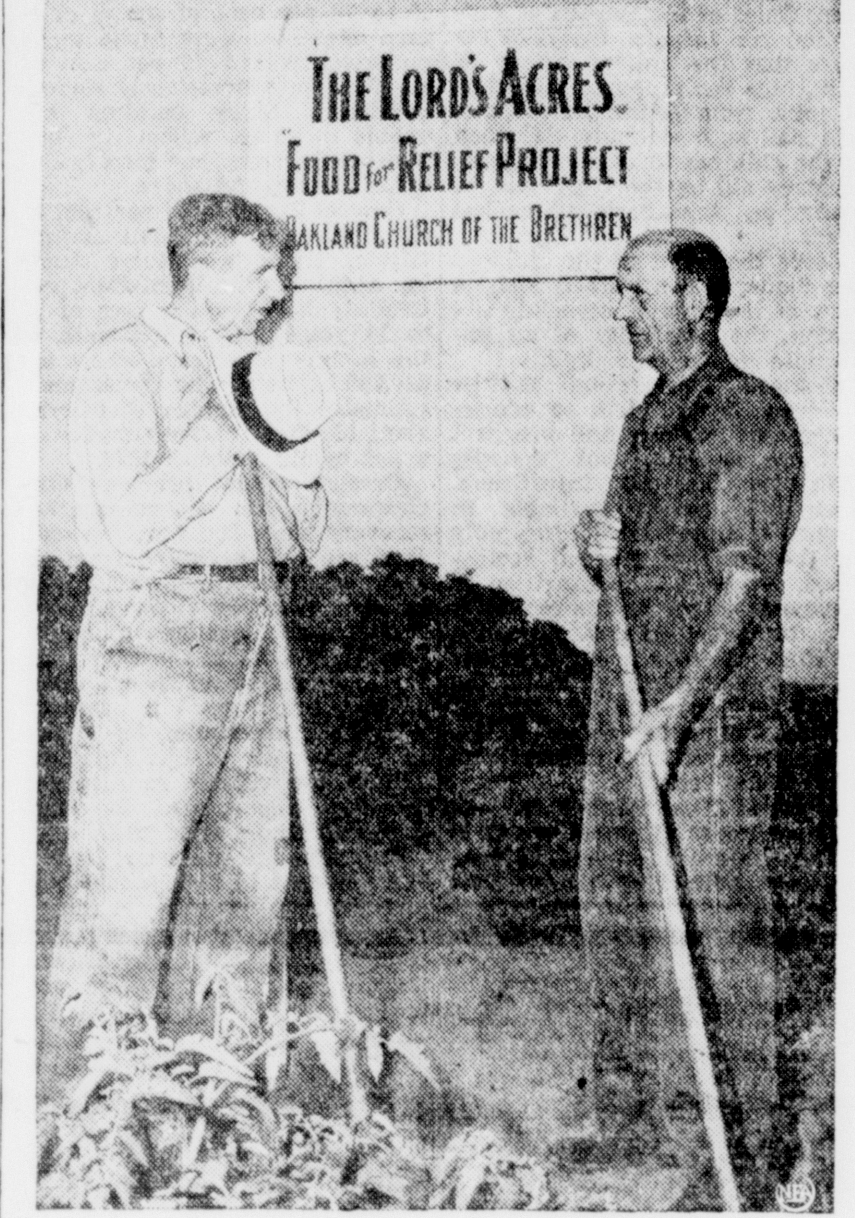

2. Planned expansions of staff are reported by relatively few industries and the number of additional workers needed in such plans is fairly small.

3. The rate at which workers voluntarily quit jobs has declined and in July was lower than in any July since 1941.

"This suggests that workers generally are finding job opportunities less plentiful than earlier and that the restlessness felt earlier by many veterans, which took the form of frequent job changes, has been reduced," the article said.

Rural Parishes Giving Farms To Keep Pastors

Rev. Moyne Landis (left) of the Oakland Church of the Brethren, Gettysburg, O., and a parishioner cool their toes in the church tomato patch, where they work on "The Lord's Acres."

BY JAMES E. HELBERT
Dayton, O., (NEA) — Rural churches are learning how to keep their preachers down on the farm.

Faced with the prospect of ministers deserting back country parishes for bigger communities and determined that "the little brown church in the wildwood" would not disappear as the little red schoolhouses have, many midwestern country parishes are offering their preachers a farm of their own.

And city ministers squeezed by the high cost of living, are beginning to realize the attractions of a few acres, a milk cow, chickens and a pig or two.

Other country parishes have set up small farms as "The Lord's Acres" where the minister, deacons and the congregation farm together to raise and can food for European relief and for U. S. charities.

Rev. Russell Hoy of the Methodist church at Canal Lewisville, Ohio (population 233), tells his city brethren:

"My family and I decided upon a rural parish after 12 years in large industrial and small city communities. We have found nothing unifies the family so much as the mutual experience we share on our homestead of 23 acres which go with this charge."

Rev. Hoy finds the solitude of the corn row and the cool shade of an apple tree a far better place to think out a sermon than his former city study which resounded with clanging street cars, screaming sirens and alley ball games.

Lees Creek Congregational Christian church in Clinton County, Ohio, built a new parsonage and bought 20 acres of tillable land to go with it. Then the deacons advertised for a man of the Gospel "who is as willing to sweat over a bean patch as over the backsliders of this community." Lees Creek got him, too, and judging from the bulging sides of his vegetable bin, his fat hens and plump pigs, he won't be seeing much of the grocer and butcher this winter.

Various denominations throughout Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, Illinois and other central states have joined the drive to put the preacher behind the plow because, as Dr. A. S. Watson, former president of Wilmington College in Ohio, says:

"Rural communities are the seedbeds of our cities and of all American life. The church, perhaps, is the best institution to serve as development center for this important unit of society. We are trying to preserve that center."

This autumn finds more ministers actually laboring in the fields than at anytime since the days of the circuit riders.

new Civil Service examinations for their jobs.

In a compromise intended to speed the pay raise appropriation through the Senate, the Republican majority agreed, it was reported, to serve notice on all department heads the legislature will slash their staffs 10 per cent in the next fiscal year.

Yielding to objections of the State Conservation Commission, the caucus agreed to charge the state's general fund for the full $70,000 needed to meet a forest fire control deficit. The commission had opposed taking $40,000 of the fund from game and fish license money.

Both chambers passed and sent to the governor a bill erasing a legal tangle and giving the State Aeronautics Commission title to the Lansing airport, previously held by the State Welfare Commission as a site for the Boys' Vocational School.

The Senate voted a 20 per cent pay increase to all county welfare agents at a cost of $11,500.

Boy, 12, Is Youngest Murder Defendant In Chicago History

Chicago, Nov. 7 (AP)—State's attorney's officials prepared today for the murder trial of Howard Lang, 12, the youngest person charged with murder in the history of Chicago.

A true bill charging young Lang with murder in the slaying of Lonnie Felick, his 7-year-old playmate, was reported to have been voted by the Cook county grand jury yesterday.

Lang, in statements and before a coroner's jury, has admitted stabbing, choking and crushing the skull of young Felick in a forest preserve last Oct. 18. His body was not found until 11 days later.

A third boy, Gerald Michalek, 9, told a coroner's jury he witnessed the slaying and said he was ordered by Lang to hold Lonnie's legs while Lang stabbed the boy with a knife and dropped a heavy concrete block on his head and chest.

State's attorney's officials said Lang probably will be arraigned on the murder charge in criminal court next week. Although the death penalty can be inflicted, officials did not state whether it would be asked at Lang's trial. If not asked, he faces 14 to 199 years on the murder charge.

Affairs, it has been announced by C. W. Stoll, chairman of the committee.

The committee met Thursday night and reviewed the entire relationship of the county board of supervisors with the Office of Veterans Affairs in the past year.

Stoll declared that the consolidation of the Soldiers and Sailors relief fund, and the Michigan Veterans trust with the Office of Veterans Affairs and the transfer of the office to the Red Cross headquarters would serve to provide most efficient service to the veterans economically. Mrs. Mary Conavan has been appointed secretary of the Michigan Veterans trust in Delta county and also counsellor of the Office of Veterans Affairs.

Reviewing the relationship of the board of supervisors with the OVA during the past year, the veterans committee of the board composed of C. W. Stoll, Al Buckner, and Chas. Priestner, issued the following statement:

"At the fall meeting of the board of supervisors on Oct. 14, 1946, there was considerable discussion concerning the Office of Veterans Affairs. Gerald Cleary, acting upon behalf of the OVA, presented a budget of $9,000 for the OVA for the year. The finance committee of the board decided that the OVA budget was too high and suggested that the Office of Veterans Affairs be given special consideration by the full board.

It was suggested by the supervisors that the OVA be consolidated with the Red Cross. Mr. Cleary and Mr. Lemire at that time said that the veterans did not want a woman counsellor. As a result the matter was dropped. By unanimous resolution, the board placed a limit of $4,500 (the amount of funds which the OVA would be permitted to spend during the fiscal year. The board of supervisors appropriated $3,500 to the OVA and the agency secured $1,000 from other sources. This agreement was signed by Mr. Cleary and Mr. Lemire.

Charges Loose Budgeting

"In September, 1947, Mr. Cleary wrote the chairman of the finance committee a letter in which he advised that funds of the OVA were virtually depleted and that effective October 1 Mrs. Mary Conavan would be employed as counsellor at a salary of $200 a month and that Robert Lemire would be retained as assistant counsellor at $100 per month to Jan. 1. A budget of $507.50 for the next three months was presented as follows: Mrs. Mary Conavan $200, stenographer $75, rent $32.50, telephone and telegraph $50, postage $50 and Robert E. Lemire $100.

"The matter was referred to the finance committee of the board and after investigating the situation, the committee decided that no action should be taken. It was disclosed that on June 24 the chairman of the finance committee had written to Mr. Cleary and advised him that as of June 1, the OVA had expended approximately $3,000 for the first five months, leaving only $1,500 for the seven months remaining in the year. The chairman of the finance committee called attention to the fact that the board of supervisors had specifically expressed in resolution that the OVA should not spend in excess of $4,500 for the year and suggested that the office should govern itself accordingly.

"The finance committee felt that the OVA was negligent in budgeting and that no further funds should be appropriated for 1947.

"At the October 1947 meeting of the county board of supervisors, the finance committee again investigated the necessity of an appropriation for the Office of Veterans Affairs. The committee found that of 120 veterans counselling centers established in Michigan, 100 have been discontinued and their work taken over by other agencies.

"In the county of Marquette, with 47,000 population compared to Delta's 33,000 population, the counselling service is on a part time basis and conducted at very little expense.

"The county board decided that if the OVA would be operated on a more efficient basis by turning over some of its activities to the Red Cross and other agencies, the board would go along with continued operation of the OVA and would appropriate up to $300 per month, with the understanding that the OVA comply with decisions arrived at by a special veterans committee of the board.

"It was for this reason that the special veterans committee voted Thursday night to accept the offer of the Red Cross to provide quarters for the Office of Veterans Affairs.

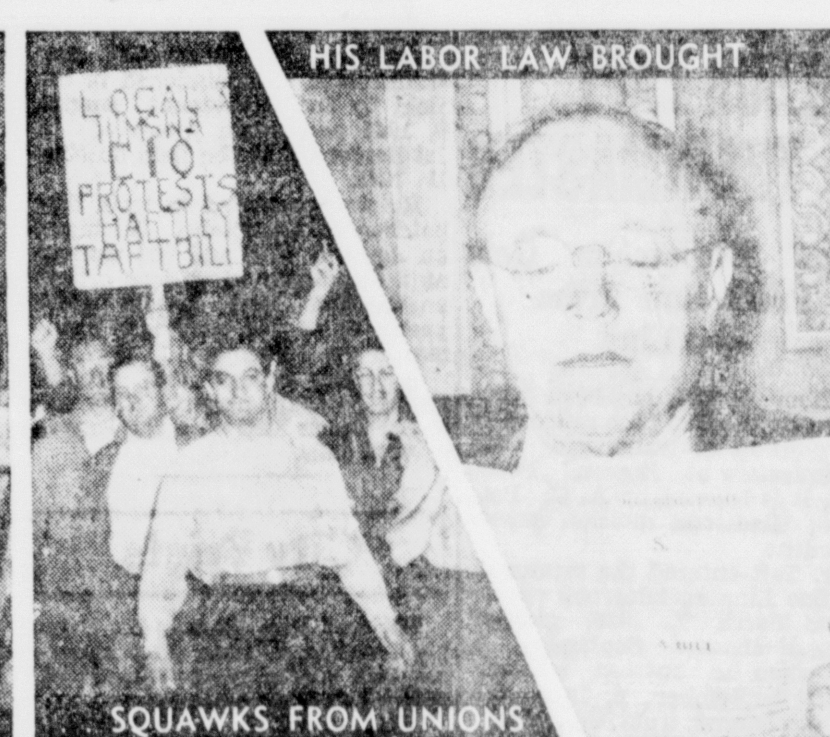

"The county board of supervisors is burdened with a large deficit for 1947 and is trying to make every department economical. The members of the finance committee are interested in the welfare of the war veterans and want to do everything necessary for their welfare. However, we believe that this can be attained on a more economical basis.

"The committee feels that the transfer to the Red Cross location should be completed no later than January 1 and that the Office of Veterans Affairs should comply with the recommendation of the committee as the OVA is financed substantially by appropriation from the board."

Taft Hopes GOP Stands for 'Great Ohio President'

ROBERT ALPHONSO TAIT was a serious child who grew into a serious man. Heredity and environment collaborated in guiding him through a brilliant scholastic career into the law and politics and Republicanism as rock-ribbed as his ancestral New England hills. His grandfather, Alphonso Taft, arrived in Cincinnati from Vermont, penniless. But he prospered to become Superior Court judge, secretary of war under President Grant, U. S. attorney general and minister to Austria and Russia. His father, William Howard Taft, was the only man ever to be both President and chief justice of the United States.

Martha, more than made up for his frosty front. They stumped the state separately and her sparkling, witty personality is credited with much of his triumph at the polls. Ever since, the "Bob and Martha" team has been a potent two-edged weapon against his political foes. Chief among these were the New Dealers and all their works. Senator Taft became self-appointed leader of the Opposition. He opposed with might and main and his labors won him the label of arch-isolationist and reactionary. But his seriousness, his undoubted sincerity and tremendous capacity for sustained, hard work won him many admirers among the conservative element. "Taft for President" was soon heard. Before the 1940 GOP convention, Taft seemed

Sid Luckman Gives Credit to the Team

Chicago, Nov. 7 (AP)—Sid Luckman, the Chicago Bears' "Mr. Quarterback," who threw 28 touchdown passes for a National Football league record in a 10-game schedule in 1943, is throwing touchdowns again in whole-sale lots, but he gives credit for his success to his teammates.

The veteran Bears passer, who already has tossed 15 scoring passes in six games, said his mates were giving him "the greatest protection I've ever had in my football career."

"They're protecting me so completely," Luckman said, "that I have plenty of time to spot my receivers. Not only that, but the receivers themselves have plenty of time in which to make their fakes and to shake off the defenders. That sets them up as better targets."

The former Columbia star's next assignment will be against the rough and tumble Green Bay Packers Sunday at Wrigley Field. He had his poorest day of the season when the two teams met earlier at Green Bay and several of his passes were intercepted.

Luckman has six more games to break 14 or more scoring passes to his 1943 mark.

MSC Looks to First Win Over Broncos

East Lansing, Nov. 7 (AP)—The Michigan State Spartans, favored in their date with the Santa Clara football team, will be out for their first win in the fifth game of the trans-continental series.

Close scores have marked past meetings between the rivals, Santa Clara winning three games by the margin of a single touchdown or less while in 1940 the two teams played to a scoreless tie. At their last meeting in 1941, the Broncos won 7-0.

Michigan State has a four win and two loss record to date while the Broncos, playing mostly West Coast teams, have won three and lost three.

Red Wings Take Rangers To Keep First Place Tie

Detroit, Nov. 7 (AP)—Back in a tie for first place in the National Hockey league after a 2 to 1 victory over New York, the rejuvenated Detroit Red Wings took a breather today before a pair of international weekend contests.

The Wings travel to Montreal tomorrow to meet the third-place Canadiens, and will be back here Saturday to take on the Toronto Maple Leafs, in fourth spot by virtue of a 3 to 0 shelling last night at the hands of their Canadian rivals.

First period scoring gave Detroit—the youngest team in the league when an average age is taken—its victory over the Rangers, the "Old Men" of the NHL.

Jimmy McFadden got the first goal before the game had been in progress three minutes, but the count was knotted quickly when New York Rookie Fred Shero shot past Red Wing Goal Tender Harry Lumley for his first professional goal.

Then Center Max Mc Nab, tall newcomer on the Detroit team, skated into prominence when he took a long pass from Jimmy Conacher and slapped it into the New York net for what proved to be the winning margin.

That finished the scoring, but the 11,265 fans found some excitement in the second period when Sid Abel of the Wings and Ranger Cal Gardner—sent to the penalty box for roughing—began swinging their fists in a toe-to-toe battle.

Officials quickly restored order as players from both clubs gathered along the boards ready to get into the fray.

2 Husky Newcomers Join Detroit Lions

Detroit, Nov. 7 (AP)—Two husky newcomers joined the Detroit Lions in practice today for their National football league clash Sunday with the Chicago Cardinals, Western Division leaders, and both are expected to break into the lineup in a hurry.

Fullback Steve Sucic, a former University of Illinois griddle who tips the scales at 210 pounds, was purchased from the Boston Yanks, who had used him in a defensive role.

Capitol Gets Crates Of Hens In Protest On Poultry-Less Day

BY STERLING F. GREEN

Washington, Nov. 7 (AP)—Lines of the citizens food committee held fast today against an inviolable force of "Hens for Harry" and "Leghorns for Luckman."

The chickens, in crates of six to 20 birds, rolled into Washington to deliver a literal "squawk" from their growers against the poultry-less Thursday part of the president's food conservation program.

Food Chairman Charles Luckman refused to budge. While aides here hunted the stream of fowl to the Salvation Army food feeding the needy, Luckman declared in Los Angeles: "Any time the Poultrymen's association or any one else can show us a better way to save grain than by having poultryless Thursdays, we will be glad to adopt it."

At the White House, where three crates arrived addressed to President Truman, the only comment was that the free poultry would wind up on the dinner table at the Army's Walter Reed hospital.

One large poultry firm on Maryland's eastern shore entered a dissent from the demonstration in a telegram to Luckman last night.

If anybody in the country has poultry he cannot sell, said the Del-Marva Poultry Corp., of Salisbury, "please have them call us collect and we'll arrange to have it picked up within 24 hours."

Two Gloucester county, N. Y., farmers—Thomas Albright of Athens and Henry J. Kreher of East Amherst—said they sent chickens to point up the fact that hens which stay on the farm for lack of buyers—"will continue to eat precious grain needed in Europe."

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson is due for three of their crates, they said, along with four for Mr. Truman and three for the Luckman committee.

The first three crates which reached the White House yesterday were full of white leghorns and barred rocks from Dryden and East Elmhurst, N. Y., and Altoona, Pa. Others arrived at food committee headquarters.

Body In Vocational School Poison Case Is Ordered Exhumed

Lansing, Nov. 7 (AP)—Ingham county coroner W. Ray Gorsline said today he will exhumate the body of Newman J. Blackmore, 34-year-old former Boys' Vocational School employee, the first of next week.

Prosecutor Charles R. MacLean ordered the exhumation yesterday for a post-mortem examination to determine if Blackmore had died of poisoning. MacLean said he had written statements from physicians who attended Blackmore before his death Oct. 25, 1946, admitting he died under conditions indicating "a strong possibility" of poisoning.

State police first became interested in the old case when they investigated an alleged poison attempt against another cottage manager at the school in August, 1946, when Blackmore, 34, was charged with poisoning.

During the first session yesterday, Andrei Smirnov of Russia asked that today's session be skipped and asked the other three deputies—Robert Murphy of the United States, Patrick Dean of Great Britain and Jacques Harbe De Saint-Hardouin of France—to come to the Soviet embassy to drink a toast to the U. S. S. R. They accepted.

The deputies will meet again tomorrow (5 a. m. EST) to continue their assigned task of laying the foundations for a session of the council of foreign ministers here beginning Nov. 25.

Deputies in London Take Time Off For Toast to Russians

London, Nov. 7 (AP)—Big Four deputy foreign ministers working on preliminary phases of peace treaties for Germany and Austria recessed today because of the 30th anniversary of the Russian revolution.

During the first session yesterday, Andrei Smirnov of Russia asked that today's session be skipped and asked the other three deputies—Robert Murphy of the United States, Patrick Dean of Great Britain and Jacques Harbe De Saint-Hardouin of France—to come to the Soviet embassy to drink a toast to the U. S. S. R. They accepted.

The deputies will meet again tomorrow (5 a. m. EST) to continue their assigned task of laying the foundations for a session of the council of foreign ministers here beginning Nov. 25.

Bombers Intended For South American Revolution Seized

Ponca City, Okla., Nov. 7 (AP)—The United States has seized two privately-owned heavy bombers on Oklahoma airfields to stop their use in a revolution believed pending in South America, a government official announced here today.

Customs Inspector O. C. Milligan of Kansas City made the statement after impounding both planes under a wartime law governing arms exports.

"We have been working on this thing for months," he said. "It involves a lot more than just two bombers."

Milligan said both were destined for the abortive expedition against the Dominican Republic, an organized earlier this fall in Cuba.

"When that revolution blew up, the planes were immobilized in the United States," Milligan said. "Then we got word they might be used in another revolution brewing in South America, and we decided to seize them."

The Customs official said he could not name the country that may be facing a revolt.

Cold Snap Chills Most of Country; Snow In Minnesota

By The Associated Press
The first cold snap of the season chilled residents from the Rockies to the Texas panhandle today.

A blowing snow storm hit parts of Minnesota, and there was snow on the ground measuring from one to eight inches in the Central Rockies and in sections of Nebraska, South Dakota and Minnesota.

Temperatures dipped well below freezing over many sections of the Midwest and into Northwest Texas as the cool weather moved eastward from the Rockies.

Generally fair weather, with temperatures about normal, prevailed over the eastern and southern sections and along the Pacific Coast, although rain was reported in Washington and Oregon.

Rain also was quite general from the upper Great Lakes southward across the Ohio River and colder weather for the north central states was forecast for tonight.

'Powerful Friends' Aided Hughes Deal, Air General Says

Washington, Nov. 7 (AP)—A former force general testified today that the late President Roosevelt, Jesse Jones, and other "powerful friends" of Howard Hughes were interested in a wartime contract for Hughes in 1943.

Bennett E. Meyers, retired major general, gave this testimony before a senate war investigating subcommittee as he identified a recorded telephone conversation of Oct. 21, 1943, with Robert Lovett.

Lovett then was an assistant secretary of war and now is under-secretary of state. Hughes at the time held a contract to build a huge flying boat and was attempting to get a contract to build 100 (F-11) photo reconnaissance planes.

STATE TO TAKE ROAD JOB BIDS

Will Open Proposals In Escanaba Nov. 12 On Two U. P. Projects

The state highway department at its Upper Peninsula branch office in Escanaba will on Nov. 12 open bids on two U. P. road improvement projects.

The proposed projects on which bids will be received are as follows: Construction of 5.136 miles of grading and drainage structures and concrete paving on US-2, Iron River and east in Iron county.

Construction of 1.15 miles of aggregate surfacing on a county road from Mass Station northeast to M-35 at Mass City in Ontonagon county.

From Escanaba the bids will be forwarded to Lansing for final determination and the awarding of contracts.

Upper Peninsula stores and their respective sales follow: Iron Mountain, 3,316 bottles; Ishpeming, 3,322; Hancock, 2,552; Menominee, 1,644; Escanaba, 1,616; Iron River, 1,580; Marquette, 1,217; Ironwood, 1,022; Sault Ste. Marie, 952; Munising, 945; Laurium, 659; Manistowick, 600; Ontonagon, 535; St. Ignace, 510; Newberry, 235, and Mackinac Island, 151, for a total of 21,468 bottles.

Tables Turned; Jap Government Listens To Newspapers Now

Tokyo, Nov. 7 (AP)—Japanese newspapers, which used to print exactly what the government told them to print, nowadays are telling the government what to do.

And government officials are bowing their heads and taking it, just as the newspapers used to do. The Japanese Cabinet Press club, composed of reporters covering cabinet activities, handed Premier Katayama a sharply worded note today, demanding he withdraw his diet statement of "false press reports" on the recent expulsion of Agriculture Minister Rikizo Hirono.

Nor were the newspapers silent while awaiting Katayama's reply. (He did not immediately answer.)

The paper Asahi recalled that two ministers had shouted "was misquoted" after some of their public statements had "backfired." And Foreign Minister Hiroshi Ashida used the same explanation when the outside world reacted sharply to his statement last June that Japan was interested in regaining Okinawa and the Kurile Islands.

Oil Gusher Floods City Backyard But Pumping Is Illegal

Newport Beach, Calif., Nov. 7 (AP)—A friendly little gusher was flowing in the William Tallman's backyard today. The question was how to control it.

Thick black stuff—oil—has been oozing up in their lot for several days and running into the street. It seems that a cap put on an old well some 20 years ago broke.

But the city has an ordinance against drilling and, when an oil company offered to pump the Tallmans' well, the council drew up an emergency measure banning pumping.

With oil bringing $140 a barrel and a company agent estimating a yield of a seven hundred barrels daily, the Tallmans were debating whether to cash in on the situation—or have the broken cap replaced.

Youth Blames Love For Topsy Driving; Judge Is Lenient

Detroit, Nov. 7 (AP)—A sympathetic traffic judge reduced drunk driving charges yesterday against a youthful suitor who told him "it wasn't liquor, it was love."

"I was pleading with my girl to patch up our engagement," explained 21-year-old George Stephenson, who officers said was speeding down Woodward avenue when arrested.

Patricia Gillis, 18, wearing a sparkling diamond on her left hand, watched proceedings from a spectator's chair.

"The engagement is on again?" asked Judge John D. Watts.

"It's on again, Your Honor," Stephenson nodded, "but I'm afraid if you find me guilty of drunk driving, it may be off again."

Judge Watts cut the charge to reckless driving and fined Stephenson $75.

WILFRED COLE
FOUND GUILTYFined $75 On 2 Counts;
Appeals To Higher
Court

Wilfred Cole of Kipling was found guilty on two charges of game law violations yesterday in a non-jury trial before Justice of Peace O. C. Estenson.

His attorney, Alger Strom, city, immediately served notice of intent to appeal to circuit court.

Cole was found guilty of illegal possession of muskrat hides during the closed season and fined $25 and costs of $10.30 or 21 days in the county jail. He also was found guilty of illegal possession of venison upon which he was sentenced to pay $50 fine and $10.30 costs or spend 30 days in the county jail.

On October 31, conservation officers visited the Cole home at Kipling with a search warrant and found 25 muskrat hides. The trapping season was not open. While making the search they found a piece of venison. Obtaining another search warrant they returned to the home and Cole locked the doors against them and refused to let them enter. State Police went with the officers and Cole allowed them to come in. The meat was found in the firebox of the stove, put there, officers contend, in an effort to destroy it. Somewhat scorched, it was removed and seized as evidence.

Att'y Strom yesterday asked dismissal of the charges on the ground that the search was illegal but his motion was not allowed.

Black Raccoons
Have Heavy Fur

Seattle-Alaska black raccoon will doubtless presently figure as a new and fashionable fur, thanks to the enterprise of one Alaska fur farmer, Louis G. Scott, in planting a small colony of eight black raccoons on one island of the many off the great northwestern territory's southern panhandle.

Although this island is somewhat to the north of the known range of raccoons, the colony has increased and multiplied—and spread to other islands, including the one where Mr. Scott lives. Now, he complains, he has raccoons in his chicken house, in his feed room, in his hall! He states that they are "the best rustlers I have ever seen," searching among shore rocks, for crabs, eels and small bullheads, and cramming themselves with wild berries.

Schoolcraft Spud
Growers Win Top
Honors At Hancock

Schoolcraft county potato exhibits topped both the 128 tuber class and the 32 tuber class at the Upper Peninsula Potato Show at Hancock, according to word from Clayton Reid, county agricultural agent.

James Wieland's sample consisting of 128 hand selected tubers was judged the best sample of its variety and won the Sweepstakes ribbon for the best sample in the show.

James Wieland also won the Sweepstakes trophy with his sample of 32 selected tubers. His sample was the best in the group of Russet Rurals and the best in the show. The Sweepstakes trophy in this class is a large loving cup donated by the Manistique Lions club in 1940. It is given each year to the grower having the best sample of 32 tubers in the show. When any grower wins the cup three times he gets permanent possession of the cup. Jim Wieland is the third grower to win the cup two years. Russell Tennant of Manistique was the first to win the cup in 1940.

Other Schoolcraft County potato growers winning prizes at the U. P. Potato Show were:

William Wieland, Route 2—2nd Russet Rurals, 32 tubers.

Duane McGahan, Cooks—3rd, Russet Rurals, 32 tubers.

Otto Winkel, Cooks—4th, Russet Rurals, 32 tubers.

Harry Blandford & Son, Route 2—2nd, White Rurals, 32 tubers.

Otto Winkel, Cooks—7th, Russet Rurals, 128 tubers.

Schoolcraft County 4-H Club exhibits also took many of the honors. In the Club exhibits, the Cooks 4-H Club took first place, with the individual exhibits taking

The 4-H Club Leaders of Schoolcraft County will hold a fall training meeting, Monday, November 10, in Manistique.

The meeting will start with a dinner at Denny's restaurant at 5:30 p. m. and will be followed by a meeting at the Court House, where Ben Westrate and Mrs. Dean Avise, assistant state club leaders from Marquette, will discuss project work for the winter program.

Leaders from all communities in the county are expected to attend.

ing one blue ribbon, three red ribbons, and three white ribbons. The Hiawatha Township 4-H Club took second place, with individual exhibits taking one blue ribbon and four red ribbons.

Winners of the growers contests and the Queen contest have not yet been announced.

Papago Indian Elders
Bow To War Vet Chief

Tucson, Ariz.—The Papago Indians, discarding centuries-old tradition, are turning to youth for leadership. They have elected 26-year-old Thomas A. Segundo, war veteran and former college student, chairman of their ruling body, the tribal council.

In the past, custom had dictated that the mantle of leadership fall only to elder members of the tribe who through the years had proved their wisdom.

When Segundo attended a meeting of other tribal leaders at Santa Fe, N. M., he found himself among older men. They looked upon him with amazement. The grizzled Indians inquired of Segundo if he had won election through political pull or great wealth.

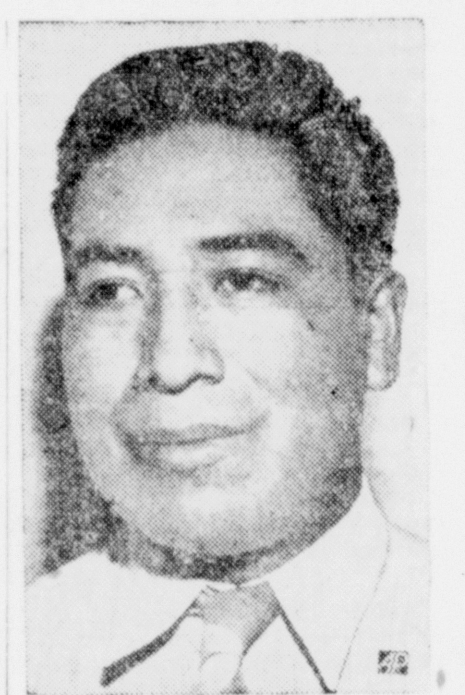

"My only explanation," recounted Segundo, "was that the Papago Indians are realizing the value of education. During the war my people talked of giving veterans more responsibility when they returned. I believe the tribe remembered those promises and that was why I was chosen."

"Those of us who have gone to high schools and colleges and who served in the war are believed to have a broader view of laws and the functions of government," the young chairman explained. "So the tendency now is to give us more responsibility in the tribal government."

"This is shown also in the selection of Philbert Torro, 24, as chairman of the Papago livestock board. That is quite a thing, for in the past old men have held the post. Torro also was named secretary of the Chut-Kut Kuk district."

Segundo comes from one of the most progressive Papago families. In the 1870's his grandfather attended school after he was married. His mother, Mrs. John Pancha, is an authority on Papago legends and has related them to many anthropology groups from the University of Arizona.

Segundo was graduated from Tucson high school and attended the engineering college of the University of Arizona from 1940 to 1943. He hopes to return for his engineering degree.

The Schoolcraft County Permanent Burial Committee, acting in anticipation of return of remains of war dead to this community, has issued a call for a meeting of World War I and II veterans to be held at the old gymnasium on Monday evening at 7 o'clock.

The purpose of this meeting will be to make all necessary preliminary arrangements for the military funerals that are to be held.

Those who can and will serve on firing squads, military escorts, color bearers, pall bearers and the innumerable other services incidental to military funerals, will be assigned to their respective tasks. Practices will be arranged for those who may need to brush up on maneuvers and all arrangements will be taken up in detail so that there may be no omissions of honors due our soldier dead when their funerals occur.

Frank Pavlov, commander of the American Legion; Albert Ackerman, of the VFW and Vern Patz, of the DAVs, are issuing calls to members of their respective veteran organizations to be present at the meeting and heads of veteran organizations in other parts of the county are being asked to take similar action.

"It is our purpose to see that every burdee returned to these parts will receive the honors due him," said Frank Pavlov, speaking for the burial committee. "For that reason, we want to have all who wish to help assigned to duty and subject to call when needed."

The committee took this action at a meeting held Thursday morning at the First National Bank directors' room. Also discussed at this meeting was the matter of a memorial service. Sentiment was divided as to whether the memorial service should be held before the arrival of the bodies or some time later. The committee finally decided that this matter did not come under their jurisdiction but was for Schoolcraft County Council of Veterans Affairs to decide. The Veterans affairs council is scheduled to meet some time next week.

IN PARATROOP MANEUVERS

LATE SEASON BUT EARLY START—It may be late in the season but it's an early start, nevertheless, for Donnie Hengesh, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hazen Hengesh, 417 South 10th street, Escanaba, who is shown here getting in a little putting practice at the Highland Golf club course this week. The caddy? What caddy? Oh, that's Mrs. Hengesh holding the flag while Donnie downs this putt.

ESCANABA DAILY PRESS SPORTS "It Seems To Me"

By JIM WARD

Hermansville is a proud little community. It has a right to be proud. Among other things and people, it is the home of the Hermansville Silver Foxes. The Foxes are a basketball team, one of the outstanding independent basketball teams of the Upper Peninsula.

The Foxes are rejoicing over their entry in the Northern Wisconsin-Michigan Basketball league this year. They intend to make things hot for a few old standbys in the NWM, like the Iron River Trappers (Sealeucci's to you), Stambaugh Big Jo Bakers and for newcomers like the Escanaba Delta Hardwares and Negaunee Beau Chateaus.

To fortify their bid, they have such talent as the three Machalks—Tony, Mike and Steve—who go in for all Hermansville sports, Capt. Lefty Floriano, Tullio Marana, Bruno Mauli, John Duca Jr., John Tuscian, John Pieropon and Reno Fochesato.

The Foxes opened their bid for NWM honors in an auspicious manner this week by squeaking Squinch's Bar of Iron Mountain, 43-30. It should have been worse. The Foxes missed 19 free throws.

Frank Rodman, 'phoning from the Hiawatha emporium, waxed a bit loquacious and a mite optimistic in reporting the game. Said Frank: "We beat the best Iron Mountain had. They had three teams last season. They combined the best players of those three into one team for this season, and we beat them. Tell those Escanaba Delta Delta Hardwares to look out. We're a-comin'!"

Anent the St. Joe-Stephenson game: According to a play-by-play account of the game supplied to us by Dick Lahay, the St. Joe Trojans penetrated Stephenson territory seven times in addition to Jack Miron's interception of a Steve pass for a St. Joe touchdown... Two of these seven penetrations could be called serious threats, one in the first quarter when Bob Ramspeck went to the Stephenson 12-yard line and one in the third quarter when Harold Marenzer went to the Stephenson seven-yard line.

We sincerely hope this corrects any wrong impression conveyed in the writup of the game... It had been reported to us that with the exception of Miron's touchdown run, St. Joe did not seriously threaten the Stephenson goal... The other five penetrations were not serious threats, to wit: The 29-yard line in the first quarter, 40 in the second, 44 in the third and 33 and 30 in the fourth.

The one outstanding fact about the game that can't be disputed is that it was "one of the roughest games ever played in Stephenson."

10 Outstanding Sophs On Esky Reserve Squad

The 10 outstanding Escanaba high school sophomore basketball players—that is, those who survive a succession of cuts from the original squad of 30—will be coached on the Eskymo "B" squad this season as a means of building for future varsity play.

It is part of a three-way program designed by Coaches Jim Rouman, Steve Baltic and Henry Wylie to make Escanaba prep basketball teams as formidable as possible. Rouman coaches the varsity, while the other two coaches the reserve squads.

A meeting of the Escanaba Basketball association will be held in the junior high school at 7:30 next Tuesday evening, it was announced yesterday by George Grenholm, city recreation director.

All team managers, captains and players are asked to attend. Association officers will preside.

Babe to Play In Men's Open Golf

New York, Nov. 7 (AP)—Mildred (Babe) Didrikson Zaharias plans to take part in the men's National Open Golf Tournament next year.

"I don't expect to win," said the Babe in announcing her decision here yesterday, "but I think I can qualify." She has a 22-hole medal play mark of 292 and has turned in rounds as low as 67.

Hockey Loop To Be Organized Wolves, Spartans And Badgers Are Liked By Forecaster-Irish, Too

By Harold Claassen
New York, Nov. 7 (AP)—This is the weekend of the Army-Notre Dame football game—the battle of the bruises—and it is not unlikely that the following selections also will be bruised. Last week's offerings, however, were correct on 62 counts, wrong in 14 for an 81.6 average that brought the year's total to 319 correct, 81 incorrect and a mean of .798.

Army-Notre Dame: This series has been going on since 1913 and ends tomorrow. It is very possible that the final clash will be so loud it will be discussed until 2013. The Notre Dame eleven has everything, including an incentive. Those 59 to 0 and 48 to 0 Army triumphs of the war years have not been forgotten. Notre Dame to win handily.

Georgia Tech-Navy: There should be a special award for the Midshipmen who, week after week, collide with a national power with a spotless record. This time Navy is host to Dinky Bowser, Davis, Healy & Co. That's too bad, Georgia Tech.

UCLA-Oregon State: A year ago Oregon State lost only a single game—to UCLA. Coach Lonnie Stiner and his eleven have waited a full year for revenge. Oregon State.

Southern Methodist-Texas A & M: Here's the spot for the week's No. 1 upset but the great Boak Walker should swing the decision to the Mustangs. Southern Methodist.

Virginia-Pennsylvania: Two unbeaten teams with the odds-quoters listing the Quakers as 14 points better. It may be closer than that, especially if Penn is thinking too much about the coming game with Army but Penn should win. Pennsylvania.

Indiana-Michigan: The Hoosiers have George Taltierro but he is not enough. Michigan.

Missouri-Duke: The regular center and a starting backfielder on each club is out with injuries. Duke has the most reserves. Duke.

Purdue-Minnesota: Isn't it about time those Boiler-makers ran down? Minnesota.

North Carolina-North Carolina State: The Tar Heels have righted themselves since their defeats by Texas and Wake Forest. North Carolina.

Princeton-Harvard: The first of the year's Big Three games. Harvard's team usually are tough to beat in November but the Tigers' superior line should be the difference this time. Princeton.

Penn State-Temple: Ray Morrison, Temple coach, says that if Columbia could beat Army his Owls can spill the unbeaten Penn Staters. But who ever heard of lightning hitting the same spot twice. Penn State.

Stanford-Southern California: Too much all-around Trojan power. Southern California.

Wake Forest-Boston College: The Eagles quietly have developed into one of the East's best. Boston College.

Skipping over the remainder in a hurry:

East: Columbia over Dartmouth, Cornell over Syracuse, Holy Cross over Colgate, Kentucky over West Virginia, Maryland over Duquesne, Rutgers over Lafayette, Yale over Brown.

Midwest: Illinois over Western Michigan, Iowa State over Drake, Kansas over Nebraska, Michigan State over Santa Clara, Northwestern over Ohio State, Oklahoma A & M over Tulsa, St. Louis over Wichita, Wisconsin over Iowa, Villanova over Marquette.

South: Virginia Tech over Washington & Lee, Clemson over Furman, Georgia over Florida, Mississippi over Tennessee, Mississippi State over Auburn, Vanderbilt over Tennessee Tech, William & Mary over Virginia Military.

Southwest: Rice over Arkansas, Texas over Baylor, Texas Tech over Arizona.

West: California over Washington, Denver over Wyoming, Montana over Idaho, Oregon over Washington State.

GROUPS MEET HERE SUNDAY At Least Four Cities Are Interested In Amateur Circuit

All Escanaba Hawk hockey players, prospective members of the team and all persons in this vicinity interested in ice hockey are invited to attend a meeting in the Escanaba city hall next Sunday afternoon, beginning at 1:30 at which time it is planned to organize an amateur hockey league.

Since J. A. Morrison, of Newberry, first suggested such a league, interest in an organization comprising teams representing Escanaba, Gladstone, Newberry, Marquette and other communities has mounted considerably.

Hockey teams of these communities have operated for several seasons on an independent basis, scheduling games whenever and wherever they could. In order to put amateur hockey in this section of the Upper Peninsula on a sound basis, Morrison a few weeks ago proposed a league.

It was his thought that an organization, a regular schedule and the lure of striving for a league championship would add zest to competition among these teams.

The idea took readily, and it is expected such a league will be formed here Sunday afternoon. Morrison will preside at the session.

Wally Teninga Is Wolverines' 'Unsung Hero'

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 7 (AP)—Unsung football heroes are usually found doing the tough and unglamorous line work, but Wally Teninga plays that role in the backfield of the undefeated University of Michigan Wolverines.

In assessing his backfield strength, head coach Fritz Crisler says "then, of course, Teninga is available. And he means 'available' at any backfield position."

Since fall practice opened, the clever Chicago sophomore has become versed in the duties of quarterback, halfback and fullback.

Peculiarly enough, Teninga says the multitude of plays he has to keep straight in his mind, is "not too confusing."

"It's the execution of those plays that makes the problem," he declares.

"I have no trouble getting where I'm supposed to be, but development of the polish that makes a good player at any one position takes experience, and plenty of it."

Coaches and the more observant football fans realize, however, that the rugged little 19-year-old is one of the few who could fill suitably an assignment.

"That's not easy," Crisler says emphatically.

The whole squad exhibited an air of quiet joviality yesterday as it gobbled down another dose of practice in preparation for Saturday's meeting with the dangerous underdog, Indiana University.

But, though there was many a quip and gibe as the Wolverines drilled, the Michigan outfit put in a good afternoon at line and backfield drills along with considerable work on offense and defense for the Wolverines as a group.

to Joe Pliska, our right halfback. "Army had a powerful running attack and we were small, but when we got the ball we kept it. The first half ended 14-13 with Notre Dame leading and the experts were floored when we stretched that to a topheavy 35 to 13 before the finish."

"The papers gave a tremendous play to our 'new' weapon, the forward pass, that brought little Notre Dame a runaway victory over Army."

"Before the season ended Army incorporated the pass into its offense to beat Navy 28 to 0 and Notre Dame, which wasn't the 'breather' opponent Army had expected, was back on the West Point schedule again the following year."

"We didn't originate the pass," Dorais said. "It was first permitted in the rules in 1906 and a lot of teams had used it before we did. But it had been almost entirely a desperation play and wasn't a standard part of the offense until we put it there."

How It Happened

Gus recalled that Army was one of the top powers of the East, along with Yale and Harvard, in those days and Notre Dame a football "nobody" that had drawn a "breather" date on the West Point schedule.

"Army was good, too, but we took 'em by surprise. We started passing early and they didn't know how to compete with it. When they would spread their defense we'd send Big Ray Eichlaub, the fullback, charging through the middle. When they'd tighten up we would throw long ones to Rockne or short ones to Joe Pliska, our right halfback. "Army had a powerful running attack and we were small, but when we got the ball we kept it. The first half ended 14-13 with Notre Dame leading and the experts were floored when we stretched that to a topheavy 35 to 13 before the finish."

Escanaba Five Whips Crystal Falls, 68-28, In Its NWM Inaugural

With Center Bob Ranguette setting what could moderately be called a scorching pace—30 points on 15 field goals—the Escanaba Delta Hardwares auspiciously opened their bid for honors in the Northern Wisconsin-Michigan Basketball league by soundly trouncing the Crystal Falls Ramblers, 68-28, before a large crowd at the junior high school gym here last night.

The Ramblers had their troubles from the outset and were never in the ball game as the Hardwares ran up a 24-4 first-quarter lead and a 36-11 halftime advantage.

They're Ready

R. Aeschliman and J. Peterson scored eight points each to top individual scorers among the invaders.

By their showing last night, the Hardwares furnished evidence that they would be ready for the Hermansville Silver Foxes, who also opened their season auspiciously by beating Iron Mountain Wednesday night.

Iron Mountain, incidentally, is Escanaba's next foe. They are slated to clash here next week.

Gladstone Wins

In the preliminary last night, Gladstone's Legions topped Escanaba State Banks, 41-34, despite the efforts of Mickey Kuchenberg.

Tomorrow's Games May Or May Not Clear Up Big '9'

Chicago, Nov. 7 (AP)—The Western Conference 1947 football championship picture might be more clearly defined along about sundown tomorrow after four Big Nine games, or the picture could become too complicated for conjecture.

The conference menu serves up: Indiana at Michigan; Purdue at Minnesota; Northwestern at Ohio State, and Iowa at Wisconsin. In a non-league affair, Illinois is host to Western Michigan of Kalamazoo.

Indiana and Iowa are the respective barriers for Michigan and Wisconsin which must be hurled before the way is cleared for a Big Nine championship football game Nov. 15 in Madison between the undefeated Wolverines and the Badgers, who have a tie to mar a perfect league record.

Purdue, now in third place with a loss to Wisconsin and victories over Ohio State, Illinois and Iowa, figures prominently in the picture, especially if the Boiler-makers get past Minnesota this week.

Michigan, bowling along the Rose Bowl trail with three conference triumphs and no losses, will meet in Indiana a team that holds first place in defense in the Big Nine. In their last three meetings, the Hoosiers have upset the Wolverines in two of them, while Michigan won the 1946 contest, 21 to 0.

Wisconsin, in second place with two triumphs, no losses and a tie, has speed, improved passing and ideas that it can cut in on a slice of the Big Nine title. The Badgers' speed and replacement make them favored over Iowa unless they fail to stop Al LaMarco's forward passes.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to express our sincere appreciation and thanks to all the kind relatives, neighbors and friends who so kindly assisted us during our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved daughter and sister, Dorothy R. Skopp. We are very grateful to Rev. Father Martin Melnick and to his assistants of St. Patrick's church, Rev. Father Charles Szyszka, chaplain of St. Francis hospital, the Sisters and the nurses of St. Francis hospital for their comforting words and other manifestations of sympathy. We also wish to express our thanks to those who sent floral and spiritual bouquets, donated the use of their cars and to all others who aided us in so many ways. The memory of these acts of kindness will always remain with us.
THE SKOPP FAMILY.
7504-311-1f

In Memoriam
In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Mrs. Henry Peterson, who passed away four years ago today, Nov. 7, 1943.
Two loving hands are resting.
The voice we loved is still.
The Mom who worked so hard for us.
Is waiting on God's beautiful hill.
God gave us strength to face it.
Courage to bear the blow,
What it meant to lose her.
No one will ever know.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.
